Pictures of A President

Without question, photographs of the ailing President at Panama shocked the nation, much as did those of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, taken after his return from Yalta.

The President's frank statement, to well-wishers in the Panamanian capital, that he had little strength but "kept on going" was quite in keeping with the attitude of both Franklin Roosevelt and the President. Both may be listed under the heading "stubborn."

President Eisenhower has had the bad luck to be trapped by political planners, some sincere, some not. His heart attack was handled ably and constructively, the public being kept fully and frequently informed. It was not until the Chief Executive was returned to Gettysburg and, later, the White House, that politically minded doctors and party leaders began to distort the situation by implying the thrombosis had been beneficial to the President.

There followed an announcement that a thorough physical examination would be had and it would be, along with the factor of the President's own thinking, decisive. Mr. Eisenhower entered Walter Reed Hospital and remained for two days. One may presume it was exhaustively thorough.

The medical bulletin asserted the President to be suffering no ill effect from his thrombosis and to be free of any other ailment.

Questions

Yet, a few weeks later, when the President suddenly was stricken by ileitis and a major emergency operation found necessary, the surgeons declared it to be a chronic condition.

The inevitable question was why, but a few weeks before, was the President pronounced free of any health defect? Many persons wondered if the examination failed to reveal it, or if the chronic condition discreetly was ignored.

But as the public information aspect of the thrombosis had been well handled, the post-operative period got out of hand. Some physicians, without clearing their statements with the astute Jim Hagerty, press secretary, produced a medical controversy by declaring the President was now better off physically than ever before and by inferring the ileitis, which required a major abdominal operation, was little more than a bad cold, etc. All this, and only this, gave rise to a rash of jokes which are not in keeping with the dignity of the man or the office.

Unhappily, pictures from Panama were disturbing. The President's own remark, volunteered to a well-wisher, that he had little strength but kept on going, will increase the concern.

Roosevelt

Franklin Roosevelt's photographs after Yalta had the same effect on the nation. Of course, F.D.R. was sick. But it was a sickness no physician could find. His associates had summoned in the late Dr. James Paullin, a distinguished diagnostic physician, president of the American Medical Assn., and a person unacquainted with the then President. They wanted a diagnosis unaffected by friendship or the wishful thinking of politics.

It was my good fortune to talk often with Dr. Paullin and discuss the several examinations he made. There was never any organic trouble. Mr. Roosevelt did suffer from hypertension. But Dr. Paullin said he had several patients running large corporations whose hypertension was greater. There was no discoverable malfunction of any organ. Yet, just before Yalta the President began losing weight and was not well.

On the morning of April 12, before the brittle artery broke in the President's brain, Dr. Paullin in Atlanta had been telephoned by the White House physician, then in Washington, and asked to go down to Warm Springs the next day and again examine Mr. Roosevelt. Minutes after this call he received another, asking him to hasten to Warm Springs, Ga. The White House had been informed of the stroke. These things cannot be predicted. An artery chooses its own time to break. So while F.D.R. was a sick man, none ever knew what it was, save hypertension, which caused him to lose weight and strength. He, himself, on the morning of the day he died, was cheerful and unconcerned.

NAACP Fined $10,000; Defied Alabama Court

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 25 (AP)—The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People was fined $10,000 for contempt of court today with a provision that the fine will be increased to $100,000 unless the NAACP produces certain records within five days.

State Wages Paid to 10 Park Lessees

Ten men who recently leased parks from Georgia are now on state payrolls as "special wildlife rangers." They are drawing salaries up to $395 a month.

The figures came to light Wednesday in an examination of the quarterly budget of the State Game and Fish Commission.

Records further showed that four of the 10 were formerly hired by the Parks Department as superintendents of the parks they presently lease. Their transfer to the Game and Fish Commission has involved substantial pay increases.

$350 SALARY

In addition, W. J. Etheredge, who leased the cabins at Franklin D. Roosevelt Park at Chipley, is receiving a salary of $350 a month. He is paying no rental because he has taken on the job of supervising group camp activities at the park.

Tom Winkler, former superintendent of Ft. Mountain Park at $165 a month, is now a "special wildlife ranger" at $250 a month.

J. L. Christian, ex-superintendent of Black Rock Park at $250 monthly is now a $375-a-month "special wildlife ranger."

DRAWS $325 MONTH

Earl Chandler, who drew $250 a month as superintendent of Kolomoki Mounds, now draws $325 a month as a "special wildlife ranger."

Lat Vandiver, once a $240-a-month superintendent of Unicoi Park, is now a $300-a-month "special wildlife ranger."

Other lessees who also draw state salaries are:

George Greene, Lake Blackshear Park, $395; W. R. Anderson, Indian Springs Park, $250; Earl Dawson, Chehaw Park, $375; Edgar Collins, Amicolola Falls, $185; and Walter O. Moore, Magnolia Springs, $250.

Game and Fish Director Fulton Lovell was out of the city Wednesday and not available for comment.

Roy Chalker, who initiated the park leases as parks director, said Lovell had agreed to establish a game and fish program for the state parks and "apparently he hired the most conveniently located men."

Until Lovell agreed to take over "we had to do our own game and fish work," Chalker continued.

Chalker recently was appointed a member of the State Highway Board.

The fine was levied in state court by Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones after the NAACP refused to produce records to be used to determine whether an injunction against continued NAACP activity in Alabama should be lifted. When the NAACP declined to produce the records Jones put the organization in "willful contempt."

Two armed deputy sheriffs guarded the courtroom while the judge read his order but there was no disturbance from the crowd composed mainly of Negroes.

Under the court's written order, the NAACP can ask to have the $10,000 fine reduced or set aside if it produces the records within five days. If it refuses to comply within that period, the fine automatically increases to $100,000.

Meanwhile, the injunction re-

Stassen Will Yield Only If Ike Insists Upon Nixon

By JAMES RESTON

(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 25—Harold E. Stassen, the loneliest man in Washington, said today he will abandon his anti-Nixon campaign if President Eisenhower personally expresses a preference for Vice President Nixon on the 1956 ticket.

In the absence of such a statement from the President, the White House disarmament aide made clear he will continue to advocate the vice presidential nomination of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts.

The President has let it be known he was "delighted" Nixon was available for the vice presidential nomination, but he has not expressed a clear preference for him over other possible candidates.

However, a reliable source informed The New York Times today Gov. Herter agreed yesterday to nominate Nixon after a telephoned message from the White House saying it was the President's wish that he do so.

Stassen was left today without the cooperation of Herter or the public support of a single influential Republican politician. Nevertheless, he took deep aim both at Nixon and the chairman of the Republican National Committee, Leonard W. Hall.

He told reporters the 43-year-old vice president ran last in an eight-man private poll he (Stassen) conducted among potential Republican vice presidential candidates.

He also wrote a letter in the middle of last night to Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.), who was one of 20 congressmen who demanded his resignation yesterday, blaming National GOP Chairman Hall for the whole controversy.

"My action (on behalf of Herter) would not have been necessary," Stassen wrote, "if the national chairman had not endeavored to foreclose the choice of the delegates (to the Republican nomi-

PURCHASING RECORDS REVEALING

Jekyll Authority Employee Bought Supplies From His Own Company

(Fifth of six articles on Jekyll Island. Sixth article will appear in The Constitution Friday.)

William McMath of Dawson, who has identified himself and L. L. Phillips of Cochran as being the only stockholders other than Jimmy Dykes in the Jekyll Hotel Corp., was employed by the Jekyll Island Authority on April 11, 1955, as construction superintendent.

McMath's salary was set at $125 a week "plus gas and oil for his own pickup truck while in use on authority work on the island. Such gasoline and oil to be furnished from supplies at Jekyll."

He joined the authority payroll 11 days after he and Dykes leased the garage buildings on the island to house Bonded Building & Supply, Inc.

With this unique arrangement, sales by the supply firm picked up almost immediately. Purchasing department records dated April 22, 1955, show six purchase requisitions totaling $4,038.52 for sales transactions between the Jekyll authority and the supply firm.

Other purchasing records of transactions between the supply firm and the authority show:

April 27, 1955, three orders, $742.27; August 1955, one order, $198.01; Dec. 13, 1955, three orders, $488.29; Dec. 19, 1955, one order, $198.38.

Many of the purchase requisitions were signed by McMath himself, making him the buyer and seller.

A Dec. 19, 1955, requisition totaling $195.38 included a notation that the material would be "ordered out as needed" from the supply warehouse.

The state audit for the year ended June 30, 1955, shows McMath worked 2.5 months, up to June 15, was paid $1,250.

McMath later quit his authority job after Gov. Griffin issued an executive order banning sales to the state by state employees.

Jekyll Probe By Assembly Found Likely

By JACK NELSON

A legislative investigation into state-owned Jekyll Island when the General Assembly convenes in January appeared likely Wednesday.

Consensus of legislators polled by The Constitution is that a thorough inquiry should be made before the state moves to dispose of any portion of the island.

Gov. Griffin has called Jekyll a "white elephant" and has said he plans to ask the legislature to take action to sell it and recover the state's investment. He said the island's 11-mile beach should be reserved for public use.

Most of the legislators opposed going that far although they favored selling portions of the island.

House Speaker Marvin Moate of Sparta was even further than the governor.

"I'm in favor of getting rid of the whole thing if we can get our money back," he declared. "I was against the state buying it when M. E. Thompson was governor and I was in favor of getting rid of it in 1955."

Moate said, "It is hard to get rid of a 'white elephant' in any busi-

McKeon Admits Drinks, Tells of Rescuing Recruit

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C., July 25 (AP)—Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon admitted drinking "three or four drinks" of vodka before he led a laggard platoon on a tidal creek "death march," it was disclosed today at his general court-martial.

The admission was made in a statement by McKeon shortly after he led his 74-man platoon into Ribbon Creek where six of the "boots" drowned. The statement climaxed the ninth day of the junior drill instructor's court-martial on charges of manslaughter, oppression of recruits and drinking in barracks.

The prosecution also introduced an official record which showed McKeon was on the borderline of being classified as under the influence of alcohol on the night of the march, April 8.

Despite heated objections from the defense, the seven-member court-martial board accepted a dispensary record of a blood test administered the 31-year-old Marine from Worcester, Mass.

In the statement read by Sgt. Samuel L. Cummings, chief investigator in the provost marshal's office at this Marine training depot, McKeon related how "All during the afternoon I had some drinks from the bottle. I believe at the most, I had three or four drinks."

He said that earlier that day, "I became quite angry" at finding some of the recruits lying down and ordered a "field day" or barracks cleanup.

While going to get the mail shortly after noon, the statement said, "I got the idea to take them out into the swamps that night, thinking that I could teach them a little more discipline."

He took the platoon to Ribbon Creek that night and after doubling the group back in the water, "I heard some men to my right, out towards the center of the stream, yelling for help," the statement continued.

"I, at this point, swam out to the men in the middle of the stream. I grabbed one man and

Can't Launch Lifeboats, Says Ship Off Nantucket

BOSTON, July 25 (AP)—The transatlantic liners Andrea Doria and Stockholm collided tonight in a dense Atlantic fog off Nantucket Island. The Coast Guard reported the 29,000-ton Andrea Doria listing so badly lifeboats could not be lowered. There are about 2,000 passengers aboard the two vessels.

The first SOS flashed from the stricken Andrea Doria, an Italian liner out of Genoa, about 10:30 p.m. (EST). The ship was due to dock in New York City tomorrow with 1,134 passengers aboard.

Minutes later, the Coast Guard said, the Stockholm, operated by the Swedish American Line, sent out a distress signal.

BOW "STOVE IN"

The Coast Guard said the Stockholm, a 12,600-ton, 510-foot motor ship, had its bow "stove in" and its No. 1 hold flooded. But the vessel appeared to be in less danger than the stricken Italian ship, built in 1953.

The Coast Guard first reported the Andrea Doria passengers were abandoning ship. The Stockholm was reported lowering lifeboats.

Another liner, the Cape Ann, was reported at the scene and lowered all eight of its lifeboats in a rescue operation.

RESCUE BOATS SENT

Four Coast Guard boats from the Metropolitan New York area were dispatched to the scene, 60 miles southeast of Nantucket Island.

The Andrea Doria sailed on her maiden voyage from Genoa on Jan. 14, 1953. When she was introduced into trans-Atlantic service, Italian line officials said she was capable of making the Genoa-Naples-New York run in nine days. Her hull is of special quality steel.

The Stockholm was built in 1948 at Goteborg, Sweden. She is said to be the largest motor ship ever built by Sweden. The Stockholm sailed for Goteborg Wednesday.

At 11:30 a.m. the Coast Guard received this message from the

Crash Liners Used Heavily By Georgians

Many Georgians have traveled to Europe and back aboard the Andrea Doria and the Stockholm.

Scheduled to have left New York Wednesday aboard the Stockholm for his native Sweden was Gus Schroder, a resident of the Georgian Terrace Hotel for 27 years. Schroder last had visited Sweden 10 years ago. He planned to visit a sister in Arvika, where he was born.

Among recent Atlanta travelers aboard the Andrea Doria were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Biggers Sr., who toured Europe.

Other Georgians who have traveled on the Andrea Doria recently are Miss Caroline Reid, Miss Virginia Barnwell and Mrs. Graham Thomas, all of Rome.

Friends said Schroder had been looking forward to the trip with a great deal of pleasure. He had carefully chosen July through September as the most ideal time of year, friends said, and also had planned to celebrate his 76th birthday in his native Sweden.

DIES AFTER COLLISION

Helen Douglas Mankin

Ex-Rep. Mankin Killed In Fulton Crash in Rain

Former Congresswoman Helen Douglas Mankin was injured fatally Wednesday and another person hurt in a crash of two automobiles on a rain-slicked road near College Park.

Mrs. Mankin, 59, of Stonewall in south Fulton County, died soon after being admitted to Emory University Hospital suffering a fractured arm, chest and internal injuries. Clayton County Patrolmen Bill Murray and Cecil Sanders said.

Joel Smith, 20, of 124 Hutchinson Dr., College Park, identified as the second driver, was treated at Grady Hospital for a fractured right arm and severe bruises.

The crash occurred during a rain on Sullivan road, near the College Park city limits. Smith was quoted as saying he was driving east on Sullivan road when he noticed a car sliding sideways toward his machine. Patrolmen said evidently the car driven by Mrs. Mankin went out of control on the rain-drenched road and began to skid. They said the cars were demolished in the virtual head-on impact.

No charges were made pending a further investigation, officials said.

The first woman to be elected to Congress in Georgia, Mrs. Mankin was elected representative from the Fifth District in a special election in 1946 to fill the

Senate Bows, Votes Sliced Housing Plan

Panel Okays Aid Compromise; Rights Bill Death Conceded

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The Senate tonight reluctantly dropped its fight for a vast public housing program of 500,000 units and approved instead a House proposal for 35,000 units in each of the next two years.

It then passed its own version of the rest of the vast housing program.

The vote accepting the smaller public housing program which the House had voted earlier today on a take-it-or-leave-it basis was on an amendment offered by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.).

WOULD KILL BILL

Capehart said he was "reliably informed" that if the Senate did not accept the House provision, the House would refuse to let the issue go to a Senate-House Conference Committee to seek some compromise agreement. This would spell the death knell for the whole vast bill.

Sen. Lehman (D-NY) bitterly protested that the Senate action in cutting back the subsidized low-rent housing meant also the elimination of a special program for construction of 15,000 units for elderly persons that the Senate had approved earlier this year.

TRIED TO FORCE VOTE

The New York senator tried to force a record vote on the issue. Instead, action was taken on a nonrecord rising vote.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) charged that the House-passed version contains provisions which would produce "guaranteed windfall profits" for some private builders. Capehart told Sparkman "I am inclined to agree" with that statement.

Capehart, however, urged the Senate to accept the smaller public housing program but to fight for the rest of its own bill.

RETREAT PREDICTED

He predicted that if this is done, the House will yield from its reportedly adamant stand and let the whole housing issue go to a Senate-House Conference Committee to seek some compromise.

Sparkman contended that the windfall profits would result from language in the House bill which would require the government to purchase military housing units built by private interests with guaranteed loans under the old Wherry Military Housing Act.

3.7 Billion Aid Wins

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Senate House conferees, agreeing to split the difference on foreign aid funds, today approved an appropriation of $3,766,570,000 for this year's program.

They also accepted the Senate's ban on the use of any of the money for military aid to Communist Yugoslavia.

The compromise figure on the appropriation for fiscal 1957 is $344,350,000 less than the Senate voted yesterday and $341,120,000 more than the House approved July 11—almost an even split.

It is also about one billion dollars less than President Eisenhower requested to carry on his mutual security program through the 12 months beginning July 1. But Eisenhower had agreed to settle for something in the neighborhood of four billion. Vice President Nixon reported after a White House conference this morning the President was "very pleased" with the way the Senate had held the line of foreign aid.

Rights Camp Gives Up

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Liberal Northern Democrats today conceded defeat in their fight to force Senate action on President Eisenhower's civil rights bill.

They abandoned their harassing threats—which had posed a peril to weekend adjournment—after Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif) informed Mr. Eisenhower that the bill was dead for this session.

Before giving up, the handful of Northerners made another effort to pry the House-passed measure out of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) said the outcome made it clear that "it will be impossible" in view of the present "temper" of the Senate and its Southern members, ever to get action on the civil rights bill.

Press To Adjourn

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The adjournment-bent Senate all but completed work tonight on the final money bills of the session—usually the last big hurdle before quitting.

By voice vote, it sent to the White House a $1,700,000,000 catch all money bill. Another measure, carrying $2,300,000, was sent to conference with the House.

The $1,700,000,000 supplemental appropriations bill contains construction funds for hundreds of military bases around the world and various other government functions.

The Senate passed the $2,300,000,000 supplemental appropriations after adding about 4 million.

Farm Bills Approved

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) won speedy Senate passage tonight on two compromise farm measures which he said President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson had advocated.

One would double the present $12-billion-dollar authorization for sale, barter or donation of farm surpluses overseas.

The other would liberalize and simplify loans to tenant and low income farmers unable to obtain credit through regular banking or cooperative sources.

Both now go to the White House.

Mail Boost Fight Due

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—A Senate post office subcommittee agreed today to hold a showdown tomorrow on President Eisenhower's proposal to raise postal rates about 430 million dollars a year. The odds were stacked against it.

The measure, generally opposed by Democrats, would increase the cost of mailing a first class letter from 3 to 4 cents, hike airmail from 6 to 7 cents and raise second and third class mailing rates.

The bill was approved by the House but has been stalled in the five-man Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC). He said the group will meet tomorrow to decide whether to recommend a bill or continue its hearings.

If it should decide to go ahead with the hearings, it would doom the measure for this session since Democratic leaders are shooting for adjournment tomorrow or Friday.

Arms Works Okayed

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—A Senate committee today approved a $2,100,000,000 military construction bill designed to sidestep a presidential veto while retaining some congressional control over housing and missile programs.

The action, taken by the Armed Services Committee, was drastic in the case of missiles. It voted to deny the Air Force request for a $16,200,000 "Talos" anti-aircraft missile system until an inter-service row over competing missiles has been "clarified."

The bill is a substitute for legislation previously passed by both houses but vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Union's Okay Of Steel Pact Seen Today

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP)—An end to the paralyzing national steel strike appeared today to hinge on only minor technical details of a new contract and formal union approval of the pact.

Approval is expected at a meeting late tomorrow of the union's 170-member Wage Policy Committee.

High optimism surrounded both sides in negotiating sessions today, and union sources unofficially expressed delight at new terms put forward by the industry.

The negotiations were recessed at midnight.

Sources close to the negotiations believed accord had been reached on all major issues, with nothing more remaining than technical details of some of the minor contract clauses.

Publicly, officials of both parties made only guarded comment.

Marilyn's Miller Cited by House

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Arthur Miller, prize-winning playwright who honeymooned in Europe with movie star Marilyn Monroe, was cited by the House today for contempt of Congress.

The House cited Miller for refusing to identify for the House Committee on un-American Activities persons with whom he attended allegedly pro-Communist meetings in 1947.

The roll call to cite Miller was 373 to 9.

The citation now goes to the Justice Department for a final decision on whether to prosecute Miller. The maximum penalty for a contempt of Congress conviction is one year in prison and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Sen. Millikin Quits Race, Cites Health

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Sen. Eugene Millikin (R-Colo) shut the door on his political career today amid the ringing tributes of his Senate colleagues.

The veteran senator, long regarded as one of the most influential members of Congress, told a news conference that for reasons of health he would not be a candidate for reelection. His term expires in January.

Millikin, 65, has suffered from arthritis and high blood pressure. He has been forced to attend Senate sessions in a wheel chair.

Senator after senator arose to praise his record.

Sen. George (D-Ga) who himself is retiring from Congress at the end of this year, recalled his years of work with Millikin on the finance committee.

"I never knew him to sponsor any kind of tax legislation that was unsound," George said. "He was recognized as one of the great intellects from the day he entered the Senate."

Ike-Critic Cain Quits Security Job

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—Former Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.), a constant and outspoken critic of the administration's loyalty-security programs, resigned today as a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

President Eisenhower accepted his resignation in a politely formal letter. It will be effective Aug. 9 when Cain's three-year term on the board expires. But the President asked Cain to remain on temporarily if his successor has not been named by then.

Cain's resignation climaxes a lengthy dispute over government employe security programs. He has charged that "Fascist-minded" persons running the programs have done more harm to liberty in this country in the past 10 years than have Communists.

MEETING WITH IKE

The Subversive Activities Control Board examines what organizations are Communist fronts and must register with the attorney general. Cain had indicated he would be willing to serve another term but said he did not expect reappointment because "My usefulness to the President...is rapidly drawing to a close."

Cain's running battle with the administration was climaxed by a face-to-face meeting with Mr. Eisenhower June 7. He came out of the White House conference "more hopeful" that "there will be no toleration of abuses on individuals, when and if discovered."

IKE THANKS CAIN

In his letter of resignation, Cain said his criticisms were based on his devotion to the nation and his respect for the President.

Mr. Eisenhower, in a two-paragraph reply, thanked Cain for his "conscientious and devoted service." Presidential news secretary James C. Hagerty said Cain's successor will be named "soon."

Cain once reported that presidential assistant Sherman Adams gave him "unshirred hell" for his public criticisms of the security programs. This was after he warned fellow Republicans against playing a "numbers game" with security dismissals during the coming campaign.

Dazed by Ether in Surgery, She Admits Stealing Blind Friend's Ring

HATTIESBURG, Miss., July 25 (AP)—A Houston, Tex., woman, groggy from the effects of ether after surgery, today admitted theft of a diamond engagement ring from a blind Mississippi woman.

Police Chief Hugh Herring said Mrs. Pearl Stevens of Mize, the blind woman, reported she and the Texan were seated companions on a bus. When the bus stopped in Hattiesburg, Mrs. Stevens asked her companion to hold her purse while she alighted for a rest stop, she related.

When she retrieved the purse, she noticed the ring was missing and notified police.

Meanwhile, police learned later, the companion had left the bus, planning to take a later bus to Houston and keep the ring.

But she became ill and underwent surgery. She admitted the theft as she came out of the ether, saying, "God must be punishing me for stealing that ring."

The ring was recovered and Mrs. Stevens declined to press charges.

The woman continued her trip to Houston.

Crewmen Leap, Jet Slams Into Apartments, Sets Fire

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 25 (AP)—An Air Force jet training plane smashed into a combination grocery store and apartment building tonight, setting the structure afire. No one was reported killed.

The two crewmen bailed out of the plane and escaped with minor injuries.

Only one of the 12 persons who lived in the four apartments was reported in the building when the plane hit, firemen said. She was Mrs. Shvester Bockum and she suffered only shock.

The two-story brick building was reduced to a pile of rubble. Firemen said flames shot high into the air after the plane made a direct hit in the center of the building.

Mrs. Allen Shotzberger, 20, and her 2-year-old daughter, Audie, were just about to enter the structure when the plane came down. Both were hospitalized for extreme shock. Several other persons in the vicinity also suffered from shock.

Lt. Welling Pulford of the New Castle Fire Department identified the airplane's crewmen as Lt. W. K. Ryan and Lt. G. E. McCleod. He said they parachuted to safety in a field about seven miles from this Western Pennsylvania community of 48,000.

British Strike Spreads to Ford

LONDON, July 25 (AP)—Britain's three-day auto strike spread tonight to the American-bossed Ford group.

Twelve thousand men walked out of Briggs Motor Bodies, Ltd., a Ford subsidiary, protesting "protective" dismissals issued to 2,000 fellow workers.

In Birmingham, heart of the once-booming Midlands auto industry, police clashed with strikers at the giant British Motor Corp. plant, which makes Austin cars.

Jordan Lists 8 Shot in Israel Fight

JERUSALEM, July 25 (AP)—Jordan and Israel forces exchanged heavy fire today in the Judean Hills west of Jerusalem, and minor shooting incidents erupted on the Syrian and Egyptian frontiers with Israel.

Six Jordanian soldiers, one civilian and the Jordan member of the mixed Jordanian-Israeli Armistice Commission were wounded in a series of four clashes in the Jerusalem area, center of rising tension over a succession of Arab-Israeli incidents. There were no reports of Israeli casualties.

Another United Nations truce observer, Swedish Col. Erik Helge Thalin, was wounded. He is the third U. N. casualty in two days of efforts to end shootings and mine incidents along the tense frontier that marks a narrow neck of Israel jutting into Jordan territory in Palestine. The shooting of the U. N. observer was blamed on Jordanian snipers.

Know who will be at the Pickrick tonight? Why don't you find out?

Forced Liability Policies For All Motorists Hit

Insurance Firms Assert Plan
Would Raise Rates in Georgia

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Making auto liability insurance compulsory for Georgia drivers would more than double present rates, representatives testified Wednesday.

The statements came as a Senate-chamberful of insurance men voiced unanimous opposition to the compulsory plan being aired by a special state Senate committee.

LAWYERS HELD ADEQUATE

Seven insurance representatives who spoke in opposition to the proposed bill were unanimous in saying that present financial responsibility laws are adequate if they are properly enforced.

Carl Lawson of Gainesville suggested that a portion of state insurance taxes be turned over to the public safety department for a major expansion of the financial responsibility section. It would cost $200,000 the first year and from $150,000 to $175,000 annually thereafter to add necessary equipment and 50 new employees, Lawson estimated.

"You know and I know . . . they don't have enough people in that office," the Gainesville man declared.

Relative costs of insurance in Georgia and in Massachusetts, the only state presently compelling motorists to buy auto liability insurance, were given by J. O. Hatch of Savannah. Hatch is president of the Georgia Assn. of Insurance Agents.

In Massachusetts, Hatch said, compulsion has resulted in more limited policies, an increase in the number of accidents and an "astronomical" increase in rates.

W. C. Dykes of Cochran said that compulsory insurance would open the floodgates on "fraud and false claims."

SOCIALIZATION THREAT

Vestal Lemmon of Chicago, representative of the National Assn. of Independent Insurance Agents, warned that compulsory laws pose a "threat of socialization. The state may be tempted to get into this section of the insurance business."

Several insurance men said

Georgia may soon have an "uninsured motorists endorsement," whereby a man could insure himself for about $10 a year against personal injury inflicted by a car whose driver has no insurance. Wallace Smith of Washington, D.C., said there are bad features to such an insurance plan. He noted it put the burden on a man who already has insurance. He was representing the American Mutual Alliance.

Sen. Charles E. Dews of Edison concluded that "we have an open mind," but that "something must be done in the public interest." Sen. Howard Overby of Gainesville presided.

Juvenile Cases Up 230 in 6 Months

The number of delinquency cases handled by Fulton Juvenile Court increased by 230 during the first six months of this year.

A statistical report by juvenile officials showed that delinquency cases even increased during March—the month in which a curfew was placed on Atlanta teenagers.

Records show there were 202 cases that month, compared to 188 in March, 1955. The midnight curfew for persons under 17 went into effect on order of Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins on March 20.

POPULATION DECREASE

Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk declared, however, that the figures should not be interpreted as meaning the curfew had not done any good.

"It has done some good in spite of what the record shows. We had more kids because we've got more kids to contend with," he explained.

The judge pointed out that the population of children in the juvenile age group "has increased higher or as high as the increase in delinquency."

Population figures show that the number of children in this age group will continue to increase over the next 10 years, he said. The judge predicted there will be 50 to 60 per cent more juvenile offenders in the next five years because of population. This means, he said, that in spite of emphasis by churches and the curfew, "we are going to have to do even more or we'll have more juvenile delinquency still."

1,248 CASES

During the period of January through June, the court handled 1,248 delinquency cases, com-

Blind Atlantan Dials Rescuers As Home Burns

A totally blind Atlanta woman Wednesday used her telephone to effect a rescue from her burning residence, police said.

Mrs. Lucille Beckham, of 3379 Lake Valley Rd., SW, was alone when a radio in the home caught fire. Patrolmen Dave Harris and J. L. Lewis said they were told.

Attempting to disconnect the radio, Mrs. Beckham knocked it from a table. Unable to locate the radio immediately, she turned to the telephone, officers said.

Mrs. Beckham called the fire and police departments. Then she placed a call to a neighbor, who came over and assisted her from the house as flames spread.

Her husband, J. B. Beckham, was at work. Patrolmen said the frame residence was severely damaged.

DeKalb Court LawnParking Plan Dropped

A proposal to place parking lanes on the lawn of the DeKalb County Courthouse appears to be out of the picture.

Decatur Mayor A. Mell Turner said Wednesday he had been notified by City Attorney B. Hugh Burgess that the proposal was "full of legal questions" and that unless the city could procure a long term lease or title to the courthouse property, it would be "very unwise" to engage in the project.

The mayor said discussions between the city attorney and County Attorney George Dillard had prompted the decision.

Without some jurisdiction over the county property, future commissioners could order parking meters on the two parking lanes removed and take the parking lanes over for jurors in session or for courthouse personnel, Turner said.

Whitfield Jury Deadlocks, Vote Case Ruled Mistrial

By ELKIN TAYLOR
Constitution Staff Writer

DALTON, July 25—A mistrial was ruled Wednesday in the election fraud trial of James Reed, as a Whitfield County jury failed to reach a verdict.

Judge James H. Paschall called the all-male jury into the courtroom at 12:05 p.m. The jurors all said they felt no agreement was possible.

Judge Paschall said the jury was split 9-3, but he did not know whether for or against conviction.

The case went to the jury at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday. At 7 p.m. Judge Paschall recalled the panel, but no verdict had been reached.

The jury reconvened at 9 a.m. Wednesday and was not called again until the noon recess.

The Reed case opened at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Whitfield County courthouse. Reed, state sales tax employee at Dalton, was charged with knowingly allowing Robert Phillips to vote under the name of a dead man.

Reed was a poll worker in the Democratic primary, but is chairman of the Whitfield County Republican executive committee.

Cases of illegal voting against B. B. Bigham of Varnell and Liddy Dendard of Dalton were postponed until a later date. The postponement was announced by Judge Paschall after he learned that Jerry Nix, a major witness in the three tax cases, had suffered a heart attack and would be incapacitated.

No date was set for another trial of Reed or for trial of the other two accused.

House Votes Bill Letting Tech Buy $100,000 Dorm

Constitution Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, July 25—Georgia Tech would be given the right to buy Techwood dormitory at a nominal figure of approximately $100,000 under an amendment to the Federal Housing Act adopted by the House today.

Rep. James C. Davis of Stone Mountain, who sponsored the amendment, explained that Tech authorities have been trying to buy the Techwood property for some time from federal housing officials but said the price of $320,000 was considered inappropriate.

The dormitory is located at the corner of North avenue and Techwood drive, NW.

The amendment he offered would permit the state institution to purchase the property within six months at a "fair market value of the land" on which Techwood is located.

He estimated the figure at slightly more than $100,000, including an adjacent lot. The adjusted figure would make allowance for payments previously made in rentals and amortization.

The bill containing the Davis amendment is yet to be acted on by the Senate.

Economy! The Sins Done in Your Name!

The economy wave promised for state parks earlier this year has turned instead into a tidal wave that may engulf somebody yet.

When Roy Chalker, now a member of the highway board but then head of the parks department, announced that parks would be leased to private individuals in lieu of the state operating them, objections were still in the name of economy.

The parks were leased, many of them to their former operators. But has the state saved money? No sir.

For one thing, the parks department budget is higher for this quarter than for the same quarter a year ago.

For another, some of the lessees are still on the state payroll and at higher salaries than ever. Their new source of income, though, is the State Game and Fish Commission where they have been enrolled as "special wildlife rangers," at wages in excess of their old ones.

Of all the absurdities committed in the name of economy by this administration this ranks right up at the top.

First, the Jekyll Island debacle and now this. Georgians pay high for everything they get and as far as recreation is concerned they never got much in the first place.

Harold Stassen's Charges Obviously Are Correct

Harold E. Stassen was knocked down for the count of nine but managed to get up. As of now he is wobbling about the ring, jabbing to try and forestall the final knockout.

Slugged late Tuesday with the news that before he, Stassen, had advanced Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter as a better GOP vice presidential nominee than Richard Nixon, party Chairman Hall had obtained Herter to nominate Nixon, the Minnesotan is trying to fight back.

He charges Chairman Hall with the truth—namely, that the chairman is trying to foreclose the choice of anyone but Nixon.

There isn't any doubt about that. Nor has there been. Chairman Hall, an old pro, has been doing that for some time.

Furthermore, it now is obvious the foreclosure had President Eisenhower's blessing. Press Secretary Hagerty would not have said weeks ago that he believed the ticket would be Eisenhower and Nixon without clearing it with the President. And the decision to have Gov. Herter nominate the Californian also would have been cleared with the White House.

Stassen, who was one of the chief architects of the Eisenhower convention triumph in 1952, has been run over by the Eisenhower machine which wants a calm, quiet convention, even though some of the delegates may be dizzy from having had their heads knocked together on the Nixon matter—just as Stassen now is wobbling and hurt. They've got to like Dick—even if they don't like it.

Had George Bernard Shaw, who died six years ago, lived until today he would have been 100 years old. It is fitting that here and there around the world, celebrations are being held to commemorate the day. Chicago is to have a great week of it, with the mayor proclaiming a "Bernard Shaw Day," and London, of course, is to have a program.

Millions of Americans who never read one of his plays know something of him from having seen movies made from some of these—notably Pygmalion.

Shaw, always the pixie, once said: "I have been particularly careful never to say a civil word to the United States. I have defined the 100 per cent American as the 99 per cent idiot. And they just adore me and will go on adoring me until in a moment of senile sentimentality I say something nice about them. Then they'll drop me like a hot potato."

But Shaw died at 94 before getting around to his moment of senility.

The New York Times had Sean O'Casey, the controversial Irish playwright, do an article about Shaw for the anniversary celebration. O'Casey gives the back of his hand to most of his contemporaries but for his fellow Irishman he had affection and respect.

Said O'Casey in part:

"It is odd how many literary enemies Bernard Shaw had: how they jeered, mocked and even spat at him either as prophet or playwright. They all stood around to stone him, and the crowd included such high-class names as George Moore, Yeats, Winston Churchill, Henry James, with the little-boy Communists, Laski and Palme Dutt, casting their own little vicious pebbles.

"The poets, too, stood near, Auden and Eliot and, like Paul toward Stephen, watched and gave a cool approval. But the giant Shaw just went on his way, striding over each, and good-humoredly giving a pat on the back to each as he went by, as if approving little boys at play, generous as he was great. He knew that there was plenty of room beneath him and that each could find a corner as he himself did."

We wish the enterprising movie magnates had thought of a Shaw revival and given us a return of his films, especially Pygmalion.

Anyhow, here is our salute to one of the great figures of our time—G.B.S.

Does Georgia Support Another Phenix City?

An apparently nasty situation in Haralson County is coming to the surface for examination.

The county's grand jury has urged the cancellation of beer and wine licenses there, a resolution obviously aimed at the night spots of Tallapoosa. The same jury, however, failed to act on Commissioner S. J. Wilson's request for a police force.

Commenting on this action, Mr. Wilson said, "It (a force) would be a waste of the taxpayers' money without the cooperation of the solicitor and the grand jury."

Tallapoosa, justly or unjustly, has acquired the reputation of a junior grade Phenix City. There have been shootings there and the trial of one of its nightclub operators on charges of murder is on the current court calendar.

The situation in the county still must be read between the lines by outsiders. But two Haralson ministers who tried to apply the teachings of the church to current events have received threats to their lives.

The affairs of Haralson are the business of the people of Haralson until the welfare of the state or the rights of individuals are jeopardized. Several Haralson citizens have expressed extreme dissatisfaction with conditions there while safely submerged in the anonymity of Atlanta, but reported that fear of punitive measures kept them quiet at home.

Laws without enforcement are worse than no laws at all. And that seems to be the situation in Haralson.

Ford Motor Company Continues To Expand

The Ford Motor Co. is planning to double the size of its relatively new assembly plant at Hapeville.

A good citizen of the Atlanta area since 1915 when it opened its first plant for the assembly of the famous Model T on Ponce de Leon avenue, Ford now plans to spend approximately several million dollars on another expansion.

The present plant was built in 1947 and covers 650,000 square feet. Last year it produced more than 113,000 cars and trucks and enriched the section to the tune of a $9,154,000 payroll.

The most recent plans are further good news to those interested in the continued progress of Metropolitan Atlanta.

In the meanwhile, Westinghouse has confirmed earlier reports of its decision to build a transformer plant in Athens. Estimates are that this plant will cost approximately 25 million dollars and employ around 1,200.

Athens is one of Atlanta's closest and most congenial neighbors. Westinghouse will be a vigorous addition to Athens' healthy economy and add much to the general prosperity of the region.

State Education Board Recognizes Emergency

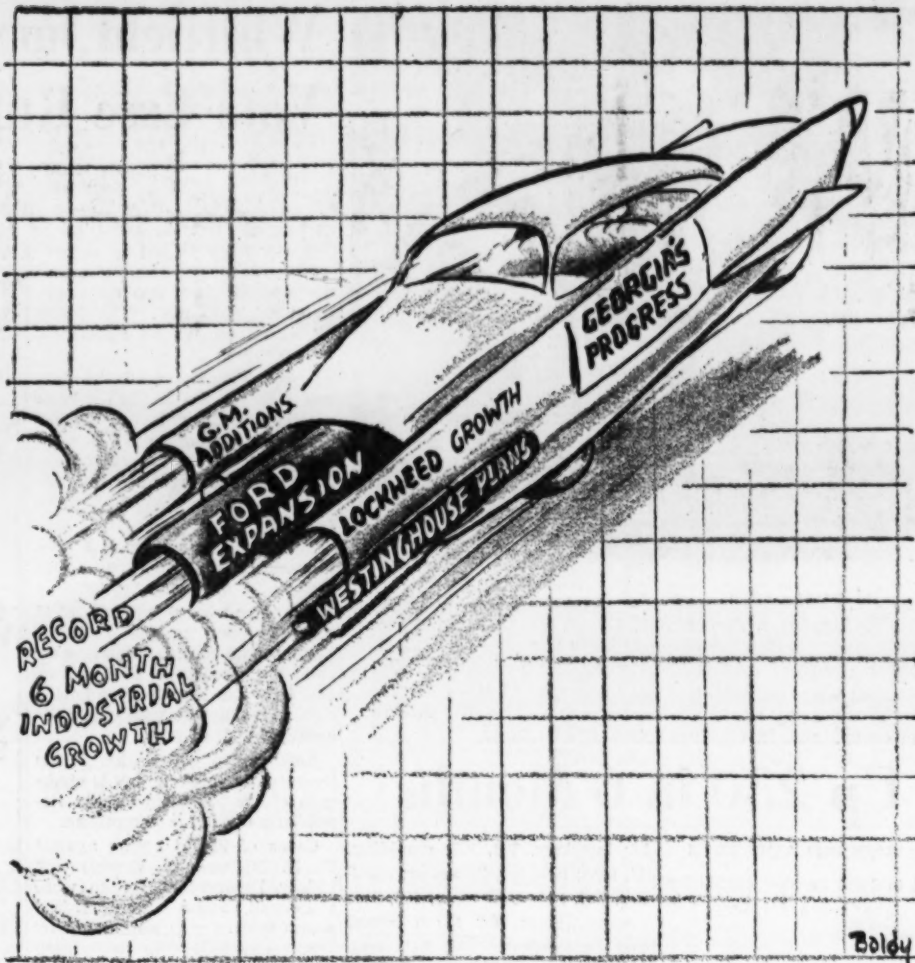

Action by the State Board of Education to allow graduates of engineering schools to receive teacher certificates is an emergency measure that sounds practical. Presumably this will include others without engineering degrees but who hold majors in mathematics and science fields.

The move, of course, recognizes the accepted fact that there is a growing shortage of mathematics and science teachers for Georgia schools. They simply are not available and the teacher-training schools are not turning out enough instructors in those fields to replace normal attrition.

Lack of such teachers is reflected in disappearance of math and science courses in high school curriculums at a time when the state's economy is becoming geared to industry and is on the threshold of the atomic age.

Care should be exercised, of course, in licensing such teachers. Instruction standards should be maintained at as high a level as possible. Recruiting of such teachers should be accomplished with that in mind. Careful screening should produce some capable instructors who can help fill the immediate need.

Those in charge of administering the education program in Georgia know what the problem is. Stopped measures are better than permitting the situation to become even worse.

Albany Citizen Asks Georgians To Flood Sen. George With Letters of Appreciation

Albany—Sen. George has been honored by people all over our nation. It is my thought that we in Georgia should show Sen. George and the nation the love and respect we hold for him. The newspapers of Georgia have been generous in their praise through their editorials, but this is not enough.

The people of Georgia who agree that he has done a good job in Washington should write and tell him so, now. Let's flood him with letters.

The governing bodies of cities and towns in Georgia could pass resolutions of appreciation and respect. I invite the newspapers of Georgia to carry on this crusade to honor this great Georgian. Let's see that he retires from the Senate in a blaze of glory.

He Issues an Appeal To Registered Voters

Atlanta—I am asking all registered voters of Atlanta and Fulton County to help me elect a new slate of officials from top to bottom.

In 1954 my city and county taxes were $21.40; in 1955 they went to $68.94; and in 1956 they are $81.20.

If we don't get new officials they will keep on rising until we will lose our property.

Are Goats Enduring Inhumane Treatment?

Baconton — For a number of years a man with a large group of goats pulling a covered wagon has been traveling the highways of Georgia.

Supposedly the purpose of these travels is to make a living by selling pictures of goats and wagon to curious people along the way.

Three times this summer I have passed them on the highways. They make a sorry and pathetic sight, the goats plodding along the highway dragging all that heap of junk.

Recently I passed them on a long hill near Carrollton. The goats were apparently exhausted but were being urged on with a whip. Traffic was too heavy to let them rest halfway up the hill.

Aside from the traffic hazard aspect (I would estimate their traveling speed at not more than two m.p.h.), there is the consideration of treatment of dumb animals. Is it right that they should be driven over paved roads with their hooves probably worn to the quick and some too old and others too young to travel?

MAXINE J. COLLINS.

She Asks for Change In Adoption Laws

Brunswick—I have been interested in some articles about adoption that have appeared in your paper lately. I agree so strongly with Judge Guess about the adoption laws in Georgia that I thought I would write and let you know that a few citizens are certainly interested in Georgia adoption laws being changed so that the child involved is the main one considered.

I think that Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler of Texas surely know what they did when they signed their child away.

I think the Howards' should be considered but the child should be thought of first.

The law should be changed so that innocent children are protected. It must be a big shock to a child to be suddenly taken away from everything and everyone he loves and handed over to complete strangers.

If I have helped in any small way in having the Howards' keep their child, then I am really glad.

Overpowered, Undermanned

Fifty years ago not too many people had seen an automobile.

In 1906 it was still the gasoline buggy or the horseless carriage, an object to goggle at to view.

In 1956 a man looks at an automobile with only two questions in mind: (1) Can I get out of its way? (2) Can I afford it?

Noting the formation last week of the Margaret Mitchell Safety Council, W. R. Knapp of 2028 Bader Ave., Atlanta, has sent in a 37-year-old clipping indicating that safety is not a problem new to the last half of the 20th Century. Mr. Knapp is the Third Army safety director.

The Knapp clipping is from a Georgia paper dated Dec. 15, 1919. It presents a symposium of safety quatrains gathered from the press at random, like this:

At fifty miles
Drove Ollie Pidd;
He thought he wouldn't
Skid, but did.

Under this sod
Lies Deacon Hale;
He winked and drank
Some "ginger ale."

At sixty miles
The late Sam Fatch
Turned loose the wheel
To strike a match.

All you need to modernize is hold to the theme and add something like this:

The brakes were power, the steering, too;
The drive was automatic;
Not all that power saved Willie Bowser.

No brains up in the attic!

Club Work Clashes With Church Work

Of late I have been preaching a sermon around over the country which has lost me a considerable number of friends. It has even caused some hard feelings at home. It is a sermon on putting the church first and in it I talk about us being "clubbed to death." I point out that we belong to so many clubs that we are out of breath running from one committee meeting to another.

I tell about one morning when Mama poured the coffee. It looked peculiar. I commented about it and she announced, "That is Russian tea." Now I don't like Russian tea to begin with. When it is warmed over the next morning, I want absolutely nothing to do with it.

What happened was she had entertained one of her clubs the afternoon before. She had made more Russian tea than they could drink and, not wanting to waste it, had warmed it over for breakfast. Right then is when I started crusading against clubs. And every time I tell about that, some busy-body makes it a point to tell Mama about my telling it and it makes her angrier and angrier.

So I guess I'll have to get me up another sermon. However, somebody sent me a poem that fits right in with my sermon. It is:

"On Monday she lunched with a housing committee, With statistics and stew she was filled; Then she dashed to a dinner with the Business Women's Guild.

"On Tuesday she went to a baby's week lunch, And a tea on 'Good Citizenship.' At dinner she talked to the trade union bunch. There wasn't a date she dared skip. "On Wednesday she managed two annual dinners. One at noon and the other at night; On Thursday a luncheon on 'Bootlegging Sinners,' and a dinner on 'War, Is It Right?'"

"World Problems We Face" was her Friday noon date. A luncheon abreast, as you guess; And she wielded a fork while a man from New York, Spoke that evening on 'Social Unrest.'

"On Saturday noon she fell in a swoon. Missed a talk on 'The Youth of Our Land.' Poor thing, she was through! She never came to, But she died with a spoon in her hand."

I don't know who wrote that great poem. I suppose the author was afraid to sign his name to it, but he hit the nail on the head. In my sermon I say that if we would give the time to the work of the church that we give to so many other organizations that the world would be a lot better off and so would we be.

Senate Spectators Are Quite Confused

WASHINGTON—You can pay your money and take your choice as to who did what to whom in the 84th Democratic-controlled Congress and who should get credit for what. Certainly the citizen who comes here as a tourist is confused and he has come from all over and apparently in greater numbers this year than ever—in and out of the gallery of the United States Senate, for example, for the brief period permitted on sightseeing tours.

He watches the show on the floor below where more senators are in attendance than at any other time this session for the hectic, final legislative skirmishes of this 84th Congress.

In the back row on the Republican side stands a big, broad-shouldered open-faced senator making an impassioned speech. He is taking issue with the Eisenhower administration. He is demanding elimination of further military aid to Yugoslavia which has been included in the pending foreign economic and military aid measure at President Eisenhower's request.

The senator points out how Yugoslavia's dictator, Marshal Tito, himself a Communist, now has healed his long breach with Soviet Russia and again is smuggling up to the Kremlin.

Who is this senator who is taking issue with the President and the administration—in the face of another message from the President pleading that there be no mandatory cut-off in Yugoslavian aid but leaving discretion to the President?

A curious tourist in the gallery might want to know, expecting perhaps to learn it was some fractious newcomer, since the back row is the refuge of newcomers.

But no. He could learn that the speaker is the Republican leader of the Senate, a party official generally presumed to carry out administration policy. Yes, that is Sen. William F. Knowland of California.

Had the visitor come in earlier, he would have heard the senator explain that he had moved from the seat reserved for the party leader, which is in the front row on the middle aisle, because on this issue he is speaking for himself and not for the administration.

Substituting for him, he said, in his own seat was the assistant leader, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.).

The whimsical thought occurs to the observer: Why shouldn't Sen. Knowland wear a beard for this act, as well as shifting his seat?

While the spectacle of the Senate party leader fighting his own President might be quite a novel sight for the casual gallery visitor from the country, there is nothing strange about it to the observer who sits day after day in the press gallery. He has seen it happen on a number of important foreign policy issues since the Californian succeeded the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio as floor leader.

No wonder the casual citizen visiting "the greatest deliberative body in the world" gets confused about who stands for what and what party platforms and principles mean, if anything.

How Many More People Must Die in Air Collisions?

In Aviation Week

The bureaucratic charade by government officials trying to fix official blame for the Grand Canyon mid-air collision that cost 128 lives is an unnecessary farce. It doesn't take an investigation by the Civil Aeronautics Board or a committee of Congress to determine what killed the crews and passengers aboard United Air Lines' DC-7 and Trans World Airlines' Super-Constellation.

The pilots and their passengers were victims of an antiquated air-traffic-control system and the combined industry and governmental apathy that has blocked any real progress toward establishing a modern federal airways system.

Blame for the Grand Canyon collision should be shared by almost every segment of the civil aviation industry whatever the verdict of the CAB may be.

For example, what about Rowland Hughes and the Bureau of the Budget which he headed until April 17? For the past three years the budget bureau has slashed every Civil Aeronautics Administration request for new electronic airways equipment. Only a few weeks ago, operating under the cloak of the administration's security restrictions, the budget bureau forced a 15-million-dollar cut and prevented the CAA from requesting the full 55 million dollars it needs to get even the first-year increment of its five-year airways improvement program started.

What about the Honorable Sinclair Weeks and his hatchetman Robert Murray and Louis Rothschild, who, as undersecretaries of commerce for transportation, have devoted themselves to squeezing money from CAA airways programs?

What about a succession of CAA administrators who have failed to tell the public and the Congress the truth about the growing crisis in air traffic control?

What about the congressmen themselves who have consistently voted to slash CAA airways budgets and who only this year voted the budget cut that disintegrated the Air Navigation and Development Board?

What about top airline management who until recently were in favor of soft-pedaling the growing crisis in traffic control for fear it would frighten customers away? Would it have frightened customers as much as the 128 seared corpses on the bottom of the Grand Canyon?

Nor can the military escape their share of blame. Both the Air Force and the Navy have blocked progress immeasurably by cloaking their applicable developments in unnecessary military secrecy and by their reluctance to work wholeheartedly toward establishment of a truly common civil-military airways system.

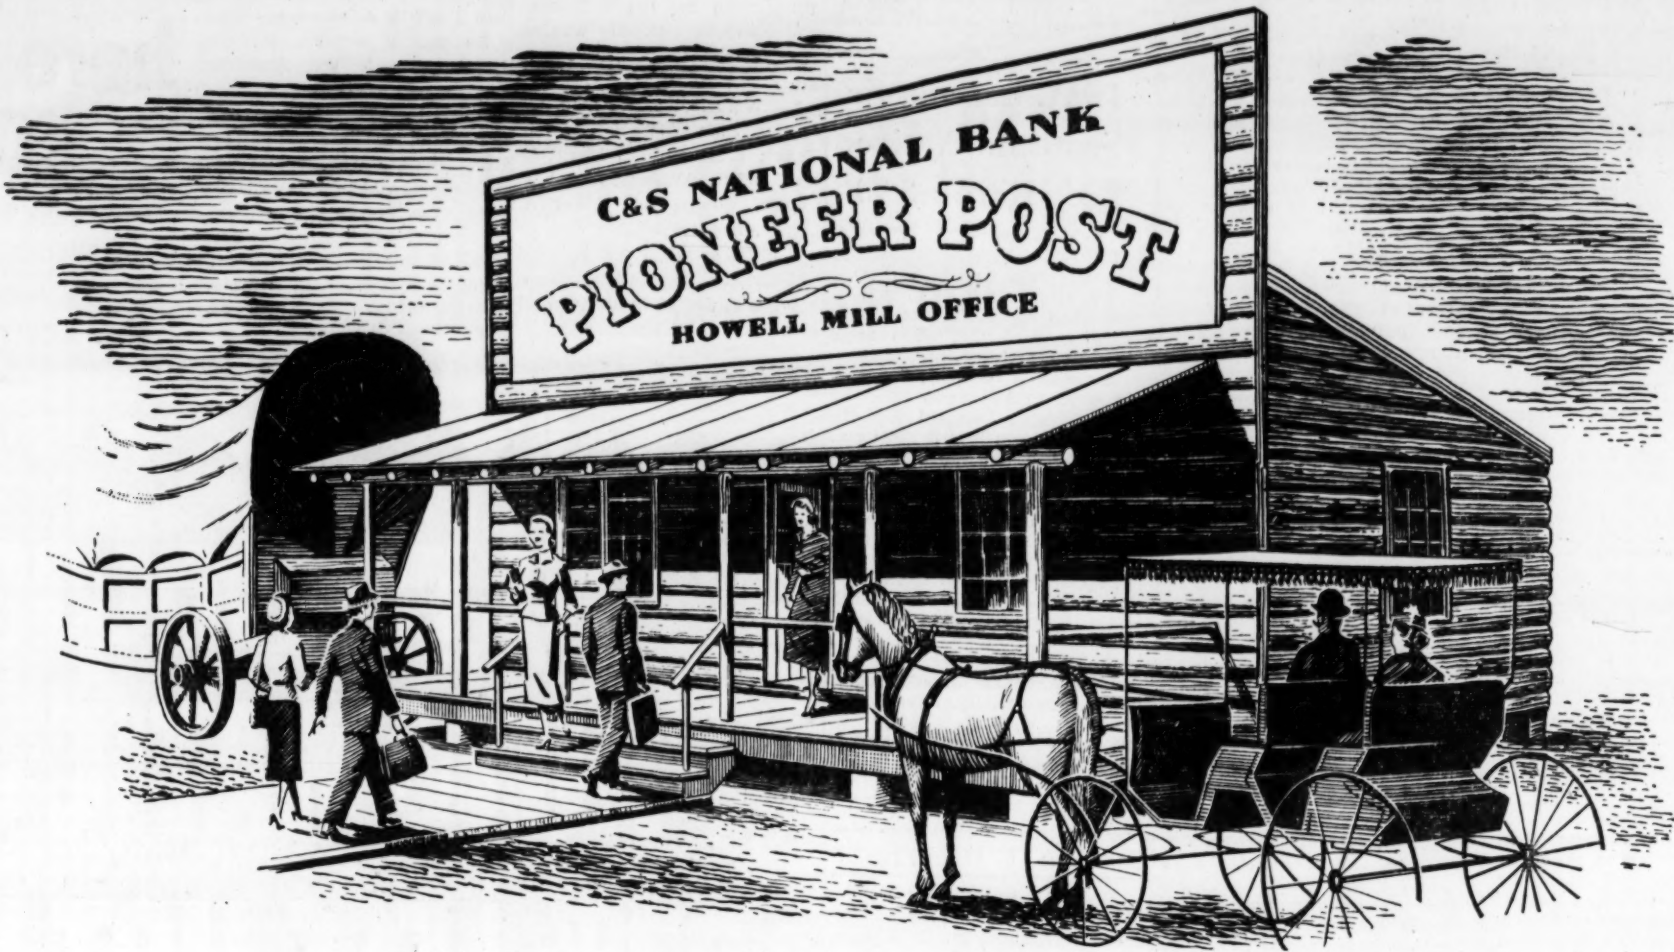

Aviation Week has raised its voice for over a year in warnings of the impending crisis and pleads for effective action to avert it. Last Aug. 8 we cited the appalling statistics of the Air Transport Assn. "near miss" survey and the mid-air collisions already occurring during high-altitude operations of the Strategic Air Command.

Yes, we shouted, but we're to blame too, because we didn't shout loud enough or long enough to shatter the official apathy.

How many more people will have to be killed in mid-air collisions before the government and the airline industry will take effective action to modernize the airways and air traffic control system?

ATLANTA'S MOST UNUSUAL BANK...TEMPORARY HOME
PENDING COMPLETION OF OUR NEW AND MODERN BUILDING

Our new building will open late this year. The temporary office was opened for business Wednesday, July 25. Come help us celebrate this Saturday.

FLAVOR OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Atlanta is no stranger to the pioneering spirit. And you'll see that spirit at its best Saturday, July 28, when we dedicate the city's newest and most original bank building. It's the new office of The C&S at 1775 Howell Mill Road, greeting you with gala ceremonies Saturday, beginning at 9:30 a. m.

The building takes the form of a Pioneer Post . . . reflecting the mood and architecture of America's colorful Western frontier during the Gold Rush. Until completion of our permanent building, it will provide modern C&S banking to Northwest Atlanta residents and the new and fast-growing Chattahoochee Industrial District. Northwest Atlantans told us in a recent survey they wanted new bank facilities fast. Our temporary solution, and a happy one, we think: Atlanta's one and only Pioneer Post.

ALL IN THE WESTERN MANNER

Howell Mill will be the eleventh C&S location in Atlanta. To mark the moment, we will celebrate opening week with a series of novel attractions...all in the Western manner...to make your first visit one you'll long remember.

Come in and see an old-time surrey! On Saturday, bring the children for a free pony ride . . . enjoy free cider and doughnuts served from a covered wagon. Get your share of free souvenirs, including wooden nickels. Door prizes, too!

HONORS FOR "PIONEER CUSTOMERS"

Each person opening checking or savings accounts during the first month will be eligible to sign our Pioneer Book, and will receive a special signature card identifying him as a "pioneer customer" of the Howell Mill office of The C&S. Be a gen-u-wine "card-totin" pioneer! Saturday's hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Thereafter regular hours will apply: 9:00 to 2:00 daily through Friday.

FREE RIDES TO THE BANK

Want to open an account in style? During opening week, Monday through Friday, phone us at JAckson 5-3811 and we'll arrange for you to ride to the Pioneer Post, and home again, in an auto of ancient vintage. Think of the fun you'll have! Wear your best bib 'n tucker! Bring your camera! In charge of the new office will be a well-trained staff headed by Russell

E. Bobbitt, manager and William D. Skinner, assistant. Both are C&S officers widely experienced in serving the local public. Visit us during opening week. Bring the family to share in the fun. See the facilities we've provided to bring you that pioneering C&S product—big-bank service with neighborhood convenience!

Ruling on 6 Regents Deferred in Ward Suit

By BOB WILLIMON
U.S. District Court Judge Frank A. Hooper Wednesday deferred ruling on whether six University System regents will be named as defendants in the Horace Ward segregation suit.

Leaf Prices Top 1955's First Day

The first 1956 flue-cured tobacco was sold Wednesday on 29 Georgia-Florida markets at grade prices and quality topping last year's opening.

Prices and grading generally were accepted enthusiastically by the growers. A relatively small percentage of offerings were turned into the government loan in quest of a better deal.

OPTIMISM GENERAL

Optimism was fairly general that the season price average would top last year's $46.51 a hundred gross and at least partly make up for an estimated 15 per cent smaller crop.

Demand was keen for medium to lower quality grades widely used in new cigarette production methods. The U.S. Department of Agriculture calculated these were up $1 to $11.75 over the 1955 opening with the largest gains in low leaf primings and nondescript.

Most gains were reported at $2 to $7. Cutters, better lugs and good leaf were unchanged or off $1.

DOUGLAS HIGH $62

Some individual market reports included Vidalia, with a total sales of 606,000 pounds and quality of offerings good. High price paid was $60 per hundred, low $28, average $54.90. Moultrie's estimated total sales were 557,672 pounds for a total of $308,512, an average of $55 per hundred. Warehousemen at Moultrie said top prices ranged between $59 and $62 per hundred. Douglas reportedly had a top sale price of $62.

The low at Douglas was $14 for sweepings. Volume totaled 714,826 pounds for a total of $369,315.33. The average of $51.66 was about $1 lower than last year's opening because best quality tobacco did not sell as high as last year.

No Clue to Identity Of Cobb Car Victim

Special to The Constitution
MARIETTA, July 25—Cobb County police are still without clues as to the identity of a man who died early Wednesday when struck by a car on the four-lane highway south of the city Tuesday night.

The police said the man had no identification on his person when he was hit.

Cobb County Lt. Cecil Holt identified the driver of the car as Paul Fisher of Doraville. No charges have been filed against Fisher.

The officer said Fisher and witnesses told them the victim was standing in the middle of the highway when struck by the car. He appeared to be about 50 years old, police said.

Two Ships Collide Off Nantucket

Andrea Doria: "Danger immediate. Need lifeboats, as many as possible."

The weather bureau said at the time of the collision the visibility in the collision area was "probably less than a mile." The bureau based its "poor visibility" reckoning on condition reported from Nantucket Island.

At 1:46 a.m. the Coast Guard reported the liner Ile de France nine miles from the scene and added:

"The situation is critical. Visibility is nil. Two U.S. Navy destroyers are being made ready for the quickest departure possible from the Boston Navy Yard."

The bureau said there was a haze over the island about an hour after the collision was reported, with winds westerly at 13 miles per hour.

LUXURY LINER

Also rushing to the scene, along with Coast Guard craft along Atlantic coastal stations, was the huge luxury liner Ile de France.

The Andrea Doria reportedly had messaged the French liner for enough lifeboats to handle 1,000 passengers and 500 crew members.

The Cape Ann, a 300-foot murren line boat managed by the United Fruit Co., radioed to the Andrea Doria:

"Have launched life boats. They are coming to you. You play lights on."

COAST GUARD MESSAGE
Minutes later, the Coast Guard in New York monitored this message from the Cape Ann to the Andrea Doria:

"When are you going to send our boats back with passengers?" It was not immediately determined whether any of the Andrea Doria passengers actually had been taken off ship. The number of passengers and crew members aboard the Stockholm could not be immediately determined.

PHILLY MAYOR ABOARD

The Coast Guard said earlier that some 2,000 passengers were involved in the collision but gave only the number of passengers aboard the Italian liner.

Among passengers reported aboard the Andrea Doria are Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia and his wife and screen actress Ruth Roman and her son, Richard Hall.

The Dilworths boarded the ship at Genoa after a vacation trip in Europe.

NAACP Fined $10,000 in Montgomery maintained in effect. It was issued by Jones June 1.

Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who filed the injunction suit, asked and got permission from the court to examine certain NAACP records. He said he needed them to determine whether the organization was operating legally in the state.

Jones, reaffirming an order he issued two weeks ago, said the records must be produced, but the NAACP refused, sticking to its contention that it couldn't legally be compelled to bring them into court despite Jones' ruling.

Negro lawyers, headed by Robert Carter of the NAACP staff in New York, indicated by their lines of questioning and reference to the U.S. Constitution that they intend to appeal to federal court.

In New York, Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, said in a statement that the document asked by the state of Alabama is "a list of our members in that state."

He said "there appears to be nothing in the Alabama law requiring organizations such as the NAACP to submit lists of individual members."

Wilkins also charged that "in too many instances the officers of state and local governments are, to all intents and purposes, one and the same with the leadership of the White Citizens Councils."

"NAACP members in Alabama and elsewhere in the South have been subjected to economic pressure and personal threats and acts of violence for no cause other than their membership in the NAACP," Wilkins said.

Thus, he said, "we cannot, in good conscience, risk exposing our loyal members to such reprisals."

Patterson, in his request for an injunction last month, said the NAACP was disqualified from doing further business in Alabama because it had failed to register with the secretary of state under a state law.

He also charged the Negro organization with encouraging attacks on state segregation laws.

Carter and the other Negro attorneys contended that the NAACP is engaged in purely interstate business in Alabama which cannot be regulated by state law. Therefore, they said, the organization isn't required to register as a foreign (out-of-state) corporation.

The attorney general demanded the production of certain records to show the extent of the NAACP activities. Jones granted the request two weeks ago and reaffirmed it today after the Negroes had filed a motion to set it aside.

The Case of the

GRINNING

GORILLA

Erle Stanley Gardner

An intimate diary and the juiciest pinups Perry Mason had ever seen!

These clues led Perry to a weird mansion. Here an eccentric millionaire kept two women and a zoo full of gorillas. The man-like animals brought Mason to his ingenious solution of a murder. But the answer led Perry close—much too close—to a horrible death. He was trapped by two killers: one human, the other—a crazed and grinning gorilla.

Jekyll Investigation By Assembly Is Likely

ness, but it would eliminate all the criticism from the state's standpoint if we could sell the island and recover our investment."

Moate said a legislative committee should look into the Jekyll situation. He pointed out that last February a committee did investigate Jekyll and "came back and recommended we keep it and spend more money ($397,000) on it." He added, "The next committee may take a different attitude, especially since the gentleman from Cochran (State Sen. James Dykes) seems to have a lease on everything down there."

Other comments: Sen.-elect Bobby Lee Cook of Summerville: "I have not formed any positive conclusion about the sale. The island presently is being used as a haven for friends of the Griffin administration and not for the taxpayers. The legislature should investigate."

Sen.-elect John P. Drinkard of Lincoln, who was a member of the last committee: "I want to study it some more. No investigation is needed. This is much to do about nothing."

Sen.-elect Jim Gould of Brunswick: "I'm in favor of selling the residential lots and retaining certain park areas and the beaches for the public. Frankly, I don't think it's necessary to investigate the authority. I think the whole lot of publicity is a temper in a teapot. There isn't any part of Georgia that hasn't had things happen just as bad as at Jekyll Island."

Rep. Paul Weems of Summerville: "Selling the island would depend on conditions. A legislative committee should study the entire Jekyll operation."

Rep. William R. Killian of Brunswick: "The state should create some of the island and turn over other portions to private enterprise. A legislative committee should study the whole picture. The island has not been developed as it should have been."

Rep. Frank S. Twitty Jr. of Camilla: "Anything that is done should be considered carefully. It should go mighty slow and protect the state's investment. If developments are such as have been in the paper, a legislative inquiry should be held."

Rep. William T. Dean of Okefenokee: "I've always thought private enterprise can develop faster than the state. Park areas should be retained for the public. The legislature should look into the situation."

Jekyll Authority Employee Bought From Own Firm

was affected by the governor's order. A state audit for fiscal 1955 showed that while he was serving as chairman of the authority, his firm sold the authority $44,308 worth of machinery and parts on an emergency purchase basis.

Blalock explained that his firm handles that line of equipment exclusively in Georgia. He said he sold the equipment and parts to the authority rather than have the authority go to the expense of having shipments brought in from out of state.

The garage building was leased for five years on April 1, 1955.

In addition to his many other businesses on Jekyll Island—paying, hotel properties and concessions, service station, building supply and general contracting—Dykes also has set up the Jekyll Insurance Corp. in the garage building.

INSURANCE SIGN

An insurance sign on the building also advertises "real estate and cottage rentals."

Purchase Department records for 1956 show three purchase requisitions dated Feb. 20 for a total of $1,646.66 in sales between the authority and Dykes' building supply firm.

On April 19, 1956, Bonded Building and Supply Corp. was awarded a contract for its low bid of $28,546 covering labor and materials to erect three enclosed fire escapes "and other incidental work" on the main hotel.

Dykes' Acme Construction Co. was awarded an $8,720 contract for construction of concrete curbing on June 13, 1956. On Acme's bid, the firm's address was listed as Jekyll Island. Acme's bid was listed as the lower of two submitted on the project.

$70 A MONTH RENT

McMath lives in the Goodyear Infirmary on Jekyll Island. He pays the authority $70 a month rent for the two-story house, which includes nine rooms, four baths, 10 closets and a kitchen. The 1949 audit of the island shows it is heated by 13 radiators.

Before moving into the infirmary building, McMath lived in Cottage No. 173-A, an eight-room house, and paid $45 a month rent. Soon after McMath was hired as building superintendent, Authority member Jim Compton began having difficulties with purchase requisitions issued by McMath.

Compton, who had the job of approving Jekyll Island purchase requisitions for five years, wrote a letter on May 4, 1955, to Lawton Shaw, supervisor of purchases, requesting changes in eight different requisitions by McMath.

104 GALLONS OF PAINT

Compton requested cancellation of one requisition for 104 gallons of paint.

On June 8, 1955, Compton wrote McMath that he would have to make out emergency purchase requisitions for several items totaling $288.12 because McMath already had had the items installed in the Crane House without submitting the purchase for bid. Compton noted in his letter that the items were ordered either by Dykes or McMath.

Compton wrote McMath: "Inasmuch as these items of equipment have been installed in the Crane House it will be necessary for you to make out emergency purchase requisitions for each item and send the white, green and tissue copies of the requisition to me, after you have signed them, and I will send them on to the Atlanta office for approval and transmission to the purchasing department."

$84 GAS BILL

Compton also noted in his letter that the authority had been billed for $34 for 400 gallons of gas, and added that this "is not the proper item to be included on the purchase requisition and to be paid out of Jekyll Authority funds. This is a supply item which should be paid for by the hotel lessees."

On June 13, 1955, Compton returned two invoices totaling $1,804.10 to a Jacksonville, Fla., firm and wrote the firm that "these items were not for the Jekyll Island State Park Authority account but for the account of the Jekyll Island Hotels, Inc., Jekyll Island, Ga., attention Mr. James Dykes."

Compton notified the firm that it was not to accept any orders for the account of the authority unless authorized either by a state purchase order, an authority purchase order or an emergency order signed by a member of the authority.

RETURNS 2 INVOICES

On June 15, 1955, Compton returned two more invoices totaling $111.50 to the Jacksonville company and wrote the firm: "We suggest you send these in."

Fulton 4-H's Pick

Four Fulton County 4-H Club members have been selected as the county's delegates to the 23rd annual 4-H Club Council meeting July 31-Aug. 3 at Eatonton. They are James Bomar of Rte. 1, Palmetto; Marcus Mansell of Rte. 1, Roswell; Jane Dempsey of Roswell and Betty Jeanes of Union City.

Compton resigned from the authority.

the muddled Jekyll purchasing policies. On the requisition, which is on file in the Purchasing Department, Compton wrote: "I do not know who ordered this work done."

Less than three weeks later

"I am opposed to the very sloppy way in which materials and equipment are being ordered for the rehabilitation work being done on those properties which are being placed under the hotel lease—and the rehabilitation work being done at the James House."

"I don't think anyone can tell what has been ordered, what it cost and who authorized the purchase. I do not care to be involved in the controversy which is very likely to arise over the placing and payment of these orders."

A notation from Compton on a July 19, 1955, requisition for $666 worth of concrete for the beach house reflects his frustration at

IMPORTANT PAINT FACTS THAT SAVE YOU MONEY

• Ordinary paints allow much of their oils to soak into the painted wood surface, leaving the paint-coat itself oil-robbed and dry. Because the brittle paint-coat cannot expand and contract with changes in the weather, it is soon ready to crack and peel.

• Pittsburgh's SUN-PROOF lets enough of its special Vitelized Oil penetrate the wood to form a firmly-locked bond between the paint-coat and the surface. The rest of the oils stay in the paint-coat to keep it "live," tough, elastic for lasting protection.

• Made with special pigments, SUN-PROOF is fume-resistant. It's self-cleaning, too—dust and dirt wash off with each rain.

Ike's Choice Is Requested By Stassen

Says He'll Bow
Only to President

nating convention) before they met, contrary to Republican tradition and wise practice."

Hall, after visiting Eisenhower at Gettysburg July 12, told reporters "absolutely" that the President was still "delighted" with the thought of having Nixon on the ticket. "I think it's Eisenhower and Nixon—that's it!" said Hall.

Stassen brushed aside all suggestions that he should abandon his campaign or get out, and rejected all suggestions that he had acted on behalf of Herter against the wishes of the President.

On the contrary, he was at his desk late last night and early this morning, working with his staff on disarmament questions part of the time, and explaining his political actions and plans to a steady stream of reporters who came to his office.

ON TV SUNDAY

He said he would write to every convention delegate asking him to check his polls on the relative strengths of Nixon and Herter. He agreed to go on a nationwide television program next Sunday (CBS Face-The-Nation). And he accepted an invitation to address the National Press Club in Washington next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, he contended, despite the general trend of opinion to the contrary, that Gov. Herter has a better chance to get the vice presidential nomination today than he did last week, and he told an early morning TV audience this morning he did not think he had been left "holding the bag" by Gov. Herter.

Stassen feels that Hall and the President's press secretary, James C. Haggerty, have sought to give the impression that the President wants Nixon on the ticket and nobody else, that no genuine effort was made to canvass the party leaders on the issue, and that the delegates in the convention were therefore being led to believe the President's mind was made up long before the convention met.

"OTHERS ACCEPTABLE"

Stassen does not question the willingness of the President to accept Nixon. He is arguing that others would also be acceptable to Eisenhower, and that others would be more likely to minimize controversy and help elect the President and a Republican Congress.

It is generally felt here that a strong element of personal rivalry and personal disappointment have entered into Stassen's actions. He has been a prominent figure in Republican politics since the 1940 convention in Philadelphia where he supported the late Wendell Willkie.

His political fortunes rose until 1948 and have declined since then, but there is reason for believing that, if careful samplings of potential vice presidential candidates had been taken, Stassen felt that his own name would have been high on the list.

STASSEN'S OWN POLLS

When no such canvass was made of the situation by the President or the national chairman, however, Stassen made his own reappraisal of the situation. He talked to a lot of party leaders. He had polls taken. And he came to the conclusion that a great deal of the support for Nixon in the party was based on what he regarded as a false assumption.

He explains the tardiness of his activities by saying it was not until after the President's second illness that he felt the health issue and the vice presidential question would play a major role in the campaign.

Thereafter, he says he surveyed the situation and took his conclusions direct to the President as soon as it was prudent to do so after the President returned to the White House.

EXPECTS ROUGH GOING

Stassen said today it is clear that he is in for some "rough going" and that he recognizes in advance he will be roundly condemned and perhaps abandoned when the counterattack comes, but that he proceeded anyway and is glad he did.

He did not look very glad today, but he maintained that somebody had to take the rap to bring the question to the point of debate, and in order to demonstrate that the President is not saying to the convention he wants Nixon and nobody but Nixon.

It remains to be seen now what the President will do. He can stop all this with a telephone call or a one-line note. All he has to do is indicate his preference, and if that preference is for Nixon, Stassen will stop his rebellion and go back to disarming the Russians.

TV Dickers For 'Wizard Of Oz' Film

By VAL ADAMS
(Copyright 1956 by The New York Times Co.)
NEW YORK, July 25.—A television network is expected to pay Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures $450,000 for the rights to televise "The Wizard of Oz" twice.

It was learned today that the Columbia Broadcasting System is close to consummating a deal for the movie starring Judy Garland, which was released in 1939. The network is planning to present the film, presumably in color, as a special Christmas show this year and again in 1957. It would pay $225,000 to M-G-M on each occasion.

The network also was reported to be arranging for provisional rights to a third and fourth showing of the film at $225,000 each. Other stars in "The Wizard of Oz" included Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Charley Grapewin.

In its original form "The Wizard of Oz" had a running time of 101 minutes. The network probably will cut it to an hour and a half.

James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, will appear Monday on the premiere of "NBC Bandstand." He will lead a group of band leaders—each playing his usual instrument—in a medley of popular tunes.

Bandstand will be presented by the National Broadcasting Co. radio network from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Petrillo's visit on the show will occur during the televised portion.

"MISS MABEL"—Elsa Lanchester stars in the title role of R. C. Sheriff's humorous play of that name during the Lux Video Theater on Channel 2 at 9 p.m. Thursday. She is trapped in a slight case of murder by the mole on her cheek, the goodness in her heart, the forging of a will and the poison she puts in her twin sister's soup.

Bette Davis Is Returning In 'Crack-Up'

Special to The Constitution
NE WYORK (July 25)—Bette Davis, whose appearance in the drama, "Crack-Up" last Feb. 8 won one of the highest ratings for the 20th Century-Fox Hour, will return in the same drama August 8 on CBS-TV.

She will head the cast which will include Gary Merrill, Barbara Ruick, Virginia Grey and Jesse White.

In the backstage segment of the show, Joseph Cotten will introduce scenes from the 20th Century-Fox production, "Bus Stop," which stars Marilyn Monroe. "Crack-Up," television version of the successful movie, "Phone Call From a Stranger" is the story of a young engineer whose marriage is salvaged by a chance meeting with an invalid woman whose life story crystallizes his own problems. Until he meets her, he is ready to admit defeat both at home and in his profession. But, her recounting of a simple tale of love and suffering gives him a fresh perspective and renewed courage.

In the August Ladies' Home Journal

Can PRINCESS MARGARET find a man to love and marry?

She's the world's most eligible girl... but what are her chances of finding love and happiness?

In the August Journal, you'll learn why, in spite of riches and popularity, loneliness has always haunted Princess Margaret Rose... why now, more than ever, it lurks so close.

You'll read how everything this lovely princess has loved most has been snatched from her... her closest friend, Elizabeth, now a queen instead of a sister... her love for Peter Townsend... and now even the simple fun of dancing in the select West End night clubs and acting in amateur theatrical productions.

Learn who her possible husband could be among the men she sees... why some people say she'll never marry... discover intimate facts about an aunt and a cousin that suggest her future.

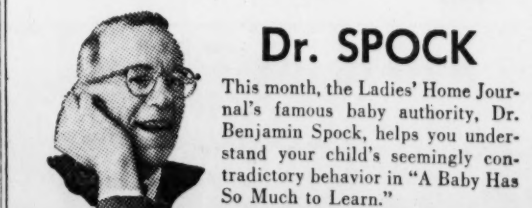

You'll read of her hoped-for American visit... her chances for marrying an American... and read how her coming trip to East Africa can change her life. Don't miss this revealing article, "What Lies Ahead for Princess Margaret?"

"Love Locked Out" Novel of the Month

Each month, the Journal offers you a complete, condensed novel destined to be a best seller when it's published later in book form. Be sure to read this gripping story of an English debutante who was afraid of love, afraid of marriage, yet found both where she least expected to find them—in war-torn Burma... by Dorothy Black.

"I hated my looks... until I lost 40 pounds"

An unhappy girl can never be pretty. Now, Connie Calabro tells how she found happiness and a brand-new husband by facing her beauty problem. Once a hefty 165 pounds, now a happy 125, she knows what it's like to be pretty. Learn how she lost 40 pounds in just six months... try her 14 diet menus... let her beauty tips help you have fun while slimming down. If you're unhappy about the way you look, but have been putting off dieting, read this inspiring beauty biography.

Dr. SPOCK "I gave in!... Will it ruin my marriage chances?"

"I am seventeen. I thought I was in love, but that didn't make it right. I can't get it off my mind. Please help me." Be sure to read psychologist Clifford R. Adams' answer in "Making Marriage Work."

Girl of 16
Too Young
To Marry?

QUESTION: I am 16 and my boy friend is 17. We are deeply in love and want to get married but our parents are dead set against it. Have they a right to blight our lives?

—M. F.
ANSWER: I do not think your lives are being "blighted". Your parents are good sensible people and they know that what seems to be a serious love affair at 16 may prove to be something else a few years later. Your parents have a responsibility for you and they are wise in their counsel. From a practical standpoint, who would support you two?

The strong probability is that you both would have to depend for a while on your parents. That is usually a poor way to start out married life. It has been proven that it is usually both right and wise for a man to be in a position to support his wife before he marries. It is also a fact that a teen-age affair is often more one of friendship and interest than actual love. Let me advise both of you to go with the other kids and all have a good time together. Life will become serious only too soon. In the meantime, your parents may be saving you both from a lot of heartache and trouble. Let me suggest that you pray about this matter.

Ask God to make His will clear and ask Him to keep you from making a grave mistake. In a year or two you will see these things with clearer eyes and with better judgment.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 spade	Double	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

A three-year-old named Needles, by his performance in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness this year, has made the racing world more keenly aware of Florida as a breeding ground for thoroughbreds. But to my fraternity it is more significant that Florida appears to be breeding a new race of bridge players. Much of this has been accomplished by importation and the principal source of the new blood-line has been New York City. Other communities have been represented and the most recent contribution comes from Chicago in the person of Mrs. Joseph Gale, now a full-time resident in Miami Beach, who is expected to make her presence known at the summer national championships soon to be held in New York City.

A neat example of dummy technique involving an interesting precautionary measure is provided in today's hand contributed by Mrs. Gale.

The bidding was mildly regressive. South's jump response lacked the normal high card requirements but had the compensation of great length and was made in view of the previous pass. Taking a dim view of no trump, South went on to four diamonds and North employed splendid judgment in bidding five.

West opened the king of spades which was taken in dummy with the ace. An impulsive play of the trump at trick two would certainly not be regarded as an indiscretion, but actually would place the contract beyond reach. Mrs. Gale with admirable caution returned a spade and ruffed in her own hand. This was a safety play against four diamonds to the 10 in the East hand. A trump lead then went to West's ace and the heart return was won in the closed hand. The trump king revealed the uneven trump break and declarer led a club to dummy's queen and ruffed another spade. Now a club lead was taken by West's ace and the heart return won in dummy. A club was ruffed in the closed hand bringing South down to two trumps. The last heart put dummy in and at trick 12 East was left with 10-7 of diamonds under South's K-9.

Milk Farmers Are Bullied Into Contracts, Probe Told

W. A. Law, president of the Georgia Milk Producers Assn., said today Georgia farmers are handed milk contracts on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis and "are scared to death of their distributors."

The Milken farmer, who said the association is "strictly an amateur group," said many farmers are duped into unfavorable contracts because they cannot read or write, or else are unable to understand a legal contract.

MILK STUDY

Law made his statements before a legislative committee investigating milk pricing in Georgia.

Law said in one particular case the producer was given only two days to sign the contract.

One committee member said he thought Law should be able to bring suit against the distributor. "What would I do with my milk if I took my distributor to the courthouse?" Law asked.

TELL PUBLIC

Law said the public should be better informed of how the Milk Control Board works. He suggested the board hire a public relations man to explain to the public that milk prices in Georgia went up according to a cost-of-living chart prepared by the federal Department of Commerce.

Retail quarts of milk went up one cent July 1 in Georgia.

Since January Georgia milk producers have been awarded some $30,000 because of contractual "misunderstandings" with distributors. Another $30,000 worth of irregularities have been uncovered and are in the process of being repaid, according to Charles Duncan, chairman of the Milk Control Board.

ASKS ABOLISHMENT

Suggesting that the Georgia Milk Control Board "should be abolished," J. B. Cathy of Hapeville said, "Milk prices in Georgia are the highest I've ever heard of in the Union. This is a free country. Nobody is forced into the dairy business. If a man can't make a living at it, he should sell out and try something else. I don't know of any dairy going into bankruptcy."

On the heels of Cathy's statement, State Rep. Ed McGarity of Henry County, chairman of Brig. Gen. Backus came to Dobbins from the Far East where he was commander of the 39th Air Division at Nussawa Air Base, Japan.

The general is a command pilot and his decorations include the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit and the Distinguished Flying Cross. He served in four theaters of operation during World War II.

General Backus resides at the air base with his wife and their three children, Dianne, Patrick and Jane.

Salk for Adults

To Goon Sale

Salk polio vaccine soon will be available through commercial channels to Georgians 20 years of age and older.

Dr. John Venable, assistant to the director of the Georgia Department of Public Health, said about 5 per cent of all future allotments will be made available to commercial outlets.

He said there is still plenty of vaccine supplied by the federal government for all persons under 20. The vaccine is now distributed through local health departments and private physicians. The federal vaccine is supplied free, but doctors may charge for administration of the vaccine.

Dr. Venable said he did not know what the price of the commercial vaccine will be. He noted the government has been buying it at a price of 60 cents a dose.

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP). Tributes to retiring Sen. George of Georgia piled higher today at what likely was the last session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee under his chairmanship.

Along with their personal tributes, the committee presented the 78-year-old Georgia Democrat with a silver tray bearing the signatures of all the committee.

Thompson Slates 5 Talks Today

U.S. senatorial candidate M. E. Thompson's campaign schedule for Thursday includes four radio addresses and a civic club luncheon speech, his headquarters here said Wednesday.

The former acting governor, who is opposing Herman Tamm in the race for the seat to be vacated by Walter George, will speak over the radio at 10:45 a.m. from Gainesville, and give a noon Kiwanis Club speech at Commerce. A radio address will be heard at 3 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

from Athens and 6 p.m. from Monroe. Thompson said expenses for every radio address have been voluntarily paid by friends in the respective towns.

CATHOLIC LEADER
Bishop F. E. Hyland

Pope Splits Georgia Into 2 Dioceses

Atlanta has been established as a separate diocese of the Roman Catholic Church, it was announced in Washington Wednesday.

Atlanta was formerly a see of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese.

The announcement that Pope Pius XII had divided the old diocese was made by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, in Washington.

BISHOP HYLAND NAMED

The Most Rev. Francis E. Hyland, formerly auxiliary bishop of the Savannah-Atlanta diocese, has been named bishop of Atlanta. Archbishop Gerald P. O'Hara, presently serving as apostolic delegate to Great Britain, will continue as bishop of Savannah.

The newly established line dividing the two dioceses will extend from the South Carolina boundary to the Alabama line along the northern limits of Richmond, Jefferson, Glascock, Washington, Wilkinson, Twiggs, Bibb, Crawford, Taylor, Talbot and Harris counties.

All of the area north of the line will be included in the Atlanta diocese while the area south of the line will be included in the Savannah area.

The old Savannah-Atlanta diocese was comprised of all the 159 counties in the state and was originally established as the diocese of Savannah in 1850. In 1937 it became the diocese of Savannah-Atlanta.

70 COUNTIES

The cities of Albany, Augusta, Columbus and Macon remain in the Savannah diocese, while Athens, LaGrange and Rome will be in the Atlanta diocese, which will cover 70 counties.

The Roman Catholic Church has 44,000 members in the state. The two dioceses are organized into 47 parishes and served by 150 priests and 395 sisters.

Bishop Hyland has served as auxiliary bishop of Savannah-Atlanta since 1949. A native of Philadelphia, the bishop also served for ten years as secretary of the Washington apostolic delegation.

Schools Near Defense Sites Get Extra Aid

More than a dozen Georgia counties whose school population has been swollen by nearby government defense installations, will receive additional federal aid for education.

The House in Washington Wednesday accepted Senate amendments and sent to President Eisenhower a bill providing for a two-year, 378-million-dollar extension of special federal aid to schools in certain areas.

The legislation authorizes payment of federal funds to help local school districts construct new school buildings and maintain and operate existing ones where they must provide educational facilities for children of federal employees.

Georgia counties already receiving aid are: Bibb, Richmond, Glynn, Cobb, Catoosa, Houston, Dougherty, Camden, Lowndes, Peach, DeKalb and Muscogee.

It is estimated that local districts over the nation will become eligible for 146 million dollars for constructing new schools during the two-year period.

Another 232 million dollars is expected to be claimed by local districts for maintenance and operation of schools.

The aid program is six years old.

Georgia's Teen-Age Golf Champ Is Busy With Practice and Plans

By YOLANDE GWIN
Meet Miss Janice Phelps. She is the new Georgia woman's golf champion, and only a teen-ager, too.
"And what are my plans?" she asked, repeating a question.
"I have too many, like getting a job and my interests at home. But the most important is that I am going to keep on practicing my golf. Next I plan to enter the National Women's Amateur Championship tournament, which opens Sept. 17 in Indianapolis, Ind.

"Between now and then I am playing on various courses here to keep in practice on all types of links. I shall play in the city tournament at the Druid Hills Golf Club on Sept. 10."

Miss Phelps, who will play under the colors of the Capital City Club, of which she is a member, will defend her city title at that time.

"I could hardly believe that I had won the state title," she said. "I do not want to seem overconfident, but it seemed to me when I was playing in this tournament I felt a little more sure of myself and I really enjoyed every minute of play. In the past I concentrated so on my game that I could not enjoy myself for worry about my shots. Now that it is all over I am so nervous I don't know what to do."

ROOSEVELT GRAD

Miss Phelps was a 1955 graduate of Roosevelt High School, and while still in school she won three junior city championships and was the first girl to be named Junior of the Year in Golf. This selection is made by the Atlanta Professional Golf Assn.

She says that playing golf just "comes naturally." She started playing six years ago. And here's why and how:

"When we moved next door to the James L. Key course I thought I'd like to play. The pro there, Ted Hayes, gave me my first lessons. The first time I played I knew the game was for me."

Even at this early stage of her golfing career, Miss Phelps already has a valuable collection of silver prizes and trophies. In fact, she has 20 articles of varying sizes and styles. One is a poached egg set.

Added to her collection now is a handsome silver bowl she was awarded for keeps as winner of the state championship. She also will keep for one year the perpetual trophy awarded by the Georgia Women's Golf Assn. This trophy, a handsome large silver piece, was given the association by the late Barron Collier, developer of Radium Springs at Albany.

ENGRAVED

The name of Miss Phelps will be engraved on the beautiful trophy along with the past winners.

The first winner in 1930 was Mrs. W. D. Doak and the last was Miss Mary Crawford of Americus who lost her title to Miss Phelps.

Miss Phelps does her own personal housekeeping at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDaniel, at 510 Sydney St., S.E. She likes to cook "just a little," but admits that when she is not playing golf she enjoys reading. And guess what kind of books?

Books on golf, and especially books by Norman Vincent Peale. "I say a little prayer before I tee off in all games," she said.

Lets Go Marketing

Now Is a Good Time To Freeze Okra, Corn

Beauty and economy go hand in hand this week on the fresh produce counters. Peaches, watermelons, oranges, avocados and apples make up the array.

Georgia peaches are plentiful on the market and continue to be offered at budget-wise prices. But there is a slight decline in supply as the peak season passes.

Watermelons are at their peak in supply. Quality is excellent.

GOOD VALUES

Good values can be found this week in California Valencia oranges, avocados from Cuba and June apples (cooking type). Bartlett pears are appearing on the market and prices are reasonable. The peak of volume will come in about two weeks. The supplies are usually largest in August.

Plums are in fair supply and quality is good.

Georgia sweet corn, both white and yellow, and bell peppers take the spotlight this week as supply increases and price decreases.

Okra is now in its peak of production and will continue through August. It is a good time to can or freeze both okra and corn.

LOWER PRICES

Potatoes and dry onions are sporting lower price tags this week. It isn't clear yet whether these prices will continue to drop. The potato supply is shorter this year than a year ago due to bad weather conditions and lower acreage.

Other good vegetable choices this week are cabbage, lettuce, carrots, celery, snap beans, purple hull peas, string beans and cucumbers from local supplies.

Egg prices continue about steady for small and medium sizes, with prices for large sizes advancing due to hot weather. The heat has reduced production of quality eggs, but the supply is adequate to meet the demand.

FRYERS ECONOMICAL

Fryers are economical now, ready to cook, cut in pieces or whole for roasting.

The big values in pork this week will be found in ham, bacon and smoked picnic. Other pork cuts show very little variation in price.

Fore-quarter cuts of beef will be economical and the wise shopper should take advantage of these cuts so attractively priced.

Now is the time to stock the home freezer with chuck, rib, shank and plate cuts. Baby beef and pork liver offer excellent values for consumers this week.

The fish counters offer some excellent values, especially in perch, cod and haddock.

Wales Sheep Crash Hymn By North Fulton Choir

"Atlanta high school students had unexpected competition from a flock of sheep that invaded the tents at the International Eisteddfod at Llangollen, Wales," wrote a London Daily Express reporter.

"The sheep, grazing on the mountainside, were attracted by food left behind by picnickers. They entered the tent as the audience was singing an opening hymn. The leader, followed by the rest of the flock, made straight for the platform and began nibbling the flowers banked against it. A red-faced shepherd, whistling furiously to his dogs, rounded them up."

The Atlantans referred to were members of the North Fulton High School choir who have been touring Europe.

"The Georgians shook the Eisteddfod out of its folksiness," continued the newsmen. "The boys turned out in white tuxedos and red carnations. The girls had the gloss of Hollywood starlets — perfect hairdos, flashing earrings, and transparent high-heeled shoes with butterflies on the toes. Their dresses were a froth of shell pink nylon chiffon, low-cut and ballerina-length.

"They won no prizes—the mixed choir trophy went to Yugoslavia—but they got the most applause," he concluded.

Smith Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Smith announce the birth of a son, Thomas Fletcher Jr., on July 20 at Georgia Baptist Hospital. Mrs. Smith is the former Grace Loretto Slider.

WASHABLE woollens are coming to the forefront in fall fashions. Here, boldly checked washable wool has been fashioned into trim walking shorts. Plain jackets, skirts and tapered slacks have also been created by the same designer, of wool that can be washed repeatedly, even in the washing machine, without shrinking out of their original fit.

Teen-Age Mail

Girl Needs Privacy At Home

By DOROTHY RICKER

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
I am a teen-age girl. My father has just started his own construction business. My problem is this—I have my own room but now my father has set up his office in part of my room! I have no privacy at all. Even when I am asleep in the morning Dad will be in there working at his desk, and I have to dress in the bathroom. I can't even talk to my friends on the phone any more because Dad always answers, tells them I'm not home and hangs up. What can I do?

I'll bet Dad would be happier if he, too, could have more privacy. Of course, this may not be a permanent arrangement so, even though you dislike his invasion of your room, about all you can do is to make the best of it.

After all, he is trying to support the family. You can help by not fussing too much about your lack of privacy.

Perhaps the reason Dad cuts your friends off so short when they call is because he thinks their calls will interfere with his business calls. If that is so, why not ask him if he will allow you to have calls after his business hours?

A three-way folding screen which you could put in front of your bed would give you a little privacy if you wanted to dress in your room.

Dear Mrs. Ricker:
I am 14 years old. Recently I had an argument with my boy friend. It was a silly argument and it was my fault. Now I am very sorry and realize I like him very much. I see him often but the only time we talk to each other is when we are in a crowd. I am fairly sure he would answer me if I spoke to him.

One of the most difficult things for most people to do is to apologize and admit they are wrong about something. However, if you have the opportunity I think you should do just that. Don't make a big "scene" about it, perhaps even a short, friendly note would do.

When you see the boy you should speak first, otherwise how is he to know that you are no longer angry with him?

Celestine Sibley

Yeller, Gone To Market

MOULTRIE—Give me a green tomato to rub on my hands and call me the tobacco queen.

Okay, I know I wouldn't make it—not even with lye soap for my hands—but I'd like to go on record as saying that the real queens of the tobacco harvest are the women and girls who were up late last night ruefully scrubbing at their hands with a half green tomato to remove the gummy brown stain from the green tobacco leaf. They are the ones who earned the right to queenly airs and graces, and, yes, queenly whims too, during this, the happy tobacco marketing season.

Of course, I don't mean to disparage the tobacco belt beauties who are often picked at this season to reign over festivals and ride on floats. Beauty queens are nice to have around and none of us, particularly the men among us, would care to see them abdicate.

But after a couple of days of touring around in the tobacco belt I am convinced that the women who deserve real allegiance are not necessarily beauties. Often enough they are old and as wrinkled as the flue-cured tobacco itself. Sometimes they are merely young and skinny and unfinished looking. Almost without a doubt they have gnarled arms and legs, sunburned noses and hands which will carry the stains from the tall green weed for weeks to come.

They are the farm women who help to plant and harvest the crops. They are the ones who cook log-rolling-sized meals for harvest crews, who get up before day and work until after dark stringing the big leaves on poles. They are the ones who help their men protect the tender young seedlings in the spring, and who brave the stifling oven-like heat of the tobacco barns in July.

The opening of the tobacco market has always seemed to me—at an air-conditioned distance—to be a carefree carnival with a lot of frugal people suddenly going on a spending spree. It has some of that, of course, but there's another side, particularly this year.

I talked to a young farm wife who didn't plan to come to market at all. She had too much work to do at home, helping her husband get that portion of the crop which is not ready to sell into the barn. "My daddy-in-law—his daddy—" she said, nodding toward her husband, "he'll be at the market. We'll be right here a-working."

Neighbor helps neighbor at this season. The leaves on the tobacco plants ripen fast, but most small farmers can keep up with them by cropping and stringing one or two days a week. That gives them time to help one another.

By time-honored custom the farmer whose work is being done feeds the crew. That means the older women take over in the house, mind the littlest young 'uns and cook the biggest meal on record. The younger wives and mothers and teen-age girls wear slacks and pedal-pushers and work together in the deep shade of the little apron-like sheds in front of most of the barns.

There's a curious, housewifely order about the harvesting of tobacco. I noticed that even the men, who cut the leaves, lay them in sleds and on tractor trailers with the stems together the way a child puts violet stems together. And the women "handlers" and "stringers" maintain a bouquet-like arrangement. The tobacco plant as it grows in the field is not really such a handsome plant. It is too rank and weedy looking. And yet it has a certain careless, arrogant distinction and the delicate pale pink blooms which top it are downright lovely. I spoke of this to a farm woman and she smiled tiredly, rubbing her aching, brown-stained hands together to ease them.

"I like it when it's yellor," she said, "and gone to market."

Bucknall, Emerson Vows Said

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Bucknall of Hapeville announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edwina Mary Bucknall, to William F. Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Emerson of Hapeville, which took place at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, with Father Roy Pettway officiating.

Mrs. Frank Parham was the bride's matron of honor, and M. V. Emerson was best man for his son.

Mr. Bucknall gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white net dress, a shoulder-length veil trimmed in seed pearls, and carried a white Bible topped with a cluster of orchids and valley lilies.

Miss David, Mr. Koger Are Wed

James E. Koger and his bride, the former Jo Anne David, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. David of Washington, Ga., are honeymooning in Nassau, and upon their return will come to Atlanta to live.

Their wedding took place at a home ceremony in Washington, with the Rev. Law M. Mobley officiating. Mr. Koger is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Koger of Washington.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace and net over taffeta. Her illusion veil cascaded from a seed pearl tiara, and she carried a white satin-covered Bible adorned with a cluster of orchids and valley lilies.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Linda Chapman of Atlanta, as maid of honor, and Miss Stella Lucas as bridesmaid. Jane Sealey of Gainesville was the small flower girl.

Mr. Koger chose his father as his best man. Frank Thomas Jr., Don Taylor and Joe David III, all of Washington, were ushers. Celia McDaniel of Athens and Sandra Williams of Statesboro, the bride's cousins, lighted the altar candles.

A reception followed the ceremony, with the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joe David Sr., assisting in entertaining.

Your Stars Today

Daily Guide—This week could have been a noisy, erratic period with resulting nervous fatigue. This could be partly a result of the weather also as the full moon over the weekend could have brought in some high pressures and sudden storms.

Today the aftermath could be noise and a tendency towards friction in personal relationships.

The Pisceans have been having a long stretch of activity, likely to be emphasized today by their own aggressiveness. Those born around March 12 should avoid rashness; also those born around Dec. 14, June 13, Sept. 15 should avoid stormy situations.

Happy Birthday, Leo! You have probably had a taste of the excitement in store for you in the next few years. Changes and up-sets can be expected for some time to come so don't try to settle down to routine.

This is a time to assert your individuality, to break with past ties and to make a new life for yourself.

Annie Lou Hardy Yacht Club To Show New Clubhouse Plans

The University Yacht Club members will gather for dinner at 7 o'clock on Friday evening, Aug. 3, at the Driving Club.

Express purpose of the meeting is to let the members' wives have their first glimpse of the building plans that have been drawn up for the clubhouse to be built on Lake Lanier.

The affair will be informal, with many of the club commodores coming direct from their business offices. Club officers are Lamar Swift, president; Dr. Charles Jones, vice president; McKee Nunnally, treasurer, and Edgar Kilpatrick, secretary.

MRS. DEVEREUX LIPPITT JR. and her daughter, Sallie Whistler Lippitt, who have been residing in Italy since last August, will sail today from Venice on the Vulcania to return to the States. Sallie was graduated in June from Miss Barry's School in Florence.

Mrs. Lippitt's other daughter, Betty, who was married on July 16 to Dr. Piero Gambaccini, is now honeymooning with her husband in Switzerland and Spain. They will arrive in Rome Sept. 1 to occupy their new home. Dr. Gambaccini is an assistant at the Institute of Radiology of the University of Rome.

MRS. JAMES A. BRANCH SR. left this week for Waynesville, N.C., to join her sister, Mrs. Claude W. Kress of New York, for a stay of several weeks.

MR. AND MRS. RUFUS M. DARBY are at Watt's Bar, Tenn., for a week's vacation.

MR. AND MRS. IRVIN T. RAGSDALE, who left early in July for a Western trip, are now at Pebble Beach, Calif. They will return home on Monday.

A FOUR-DAY VISIT at Dunvegan Castle on the Isle of Skye is the highlight of a trip to Europe for Mrs. Horace B. Jernigan and her aunt, Miss Martha McLeod of Thomasville.

The pair will sail next Tuesday from Montreal on the Empress of France for a 10-week tour of the Continent and the British Isles. In Dunvegan, Scotland, they will attend the gathering of the Clan McLeod of Harris, and at Dunvegan Castle they will be guests of their kinswoman, Dame Flora McLeod.

Mrs. Jernigan and Miss McLeod will be guests of honor at a bon voyage luncheon to be given today by the former's daughter, Mrs. C. O. Davis Jr., at Franklin Simon's tearoom.

MRS. PAUL REESE gathered eight small cousins to meet 9-year-old Tift Myers of Fort Worth, Tex., at a swimming party and luncheon at the Capital City Country Club. With his aunt, Mrs. A. Leroy Miller of Bethesda, Md., Tift is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carmichael on Piedmont avenue. He is the son of Lt. Col. Henry Myers of Fort Worth who was personal pilot for the late President Roosevelt.

JUST BACK FROM EUROPE is Miss Elizabeth Appleton who landed in New York yesterday aboard the Olympia after a cruise of the Mediterranean and an art tour of the Continent. She left June 4 with a group of art students from Stephens College, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Green. Making their headquarters in Athens, the students sketched the ancient ruins and studied the masterpieces of Greece and Italy, for which they will get credit in their art courses.

Miss Coker Appleton flew to New York to meet her sister, being joined in Arlington, Va., by the latter's suitemate at Stephens, Miss Pat Fletcher. The trio will spend several days in New York before returning home.

SANDY FRAME returned Tuesday to his home at Yemassee, S.C., after a visit to his cousin, Mrs. Frederick W. Bull Jr., and Mr. Bull on Westover drive.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM T. BARTON have returned from their wedding trip to North Carolina mountain resorts and Gatlinburg, Tenn., and are residing at 1810 Peachtree Rd. Mrs. Barton is the former Beverly Joiner.

MRS. WILLIAM M. SCURRY and her daughters, Sally and Ruth, have opened their cottage, Lazy Acres, near Lake Greenwood, Chappells, S.C., for a stay of several weeks. Mr. Scurry will join them for the weekends.

MISSSES MARTHA AND VIOLET WEST of Shreveport, La., are guests of their aunts, Mrs. L. D. Watson and Mrs. B. W. Brown. They are daughters of those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. West Jr.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM M. WALLACE and their daughters, Marifree and Priscilla, are vacationing in Newport, R.I., and will also go to New York for a visit before returning. They were accompanied by Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. R. L. Free, who will remain in Newport for several weeks as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Free Jr.

MISS DOROTHY HINMAN, director of the Hinman School for Reading, is spending this week as the guest of Mrs. W. H. Weir at Notla Vista in the north Georgia mountains.

During her stay, Miss Hinman will teach reading to a group of fifty boys and girls in the community as a summer school project. This project has been an annual event for the past several years under the sponsorship of the Georgia Educational Exchange.

Irby-Boone Marriage Announced

PERRY, July 25—At a Sunday afternoon ceremony solemnized at the Perry Baptist Church, Miss Mattie Frances Irby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abner B. Irby, was married to William Joseph Boone, with the Rev. James M. Teresi, pastor of the church, officiating.

Mr. Irby gave his daughter in marriage, and a reception followed the service in the church parlors.

Willis Harrison was best man for Mr. Boone who chose as his usher-groomsman Harold Walton of Jacksonville, Clifton Turk, Norman McKinley and Bill Harrison of Macon.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Harold Walton, as matron of honor, and Mrs. Horace E. Weems Jr. as bridesmaid. Children in the wedding were Hugh Weems as ring bearer, Gail Weems as flower girl, and Jimmy Walton of Jacksonville as candle-lighter.

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta which was made by her mother. Her veil was three-quarter length, and she carried a prayer book topped with white orchids.

Miss Virginia Smith of Macon kept the bride's book. After a Florida honeymoon, Mr. Boone will resume his work in the security division at Robins Air Force Base, and his bride will return to her position in the procurement department there.

Johnson, Tully Vows Spoken

COLQUITT, July 25—Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jean Johnson, to Robert Tully, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory Tully. The wedding took place at the Freewill Baptist Church here, with the Rev. H. L. Catrett as officiant.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was attended by Miss Elaine Tully as maid of honor, and Ronnie Moody of Damascus was best man. Walter Swearingin and Jerry Grimsley seated the guests and lighted the candles.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Lovering.

Mr. Tully and his bride left for a wedding trip. They will reside in Bainbridge where the former is associated with the Day-Tonday Appliance Co.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.

—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $2.00 plus tax at better stores.

Fabulous Formula Diet

Developed by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research

A reducing diet... a complete food mixture, nourishing and tasty... easy to prepare and use

You may use delicious
Karo® Syrup
in this diet formula instead of dextrose (Karo is readily available in all grocery stores)

Be sure to use
Mazola® Oil
the only leading oil made entirely from golden corn

The Complete "Fabulous Formula" Reducing Diet!

(20 ounces... approximately 900 calories)

For serious or part-time dieters. You reduce by substituting this Formula Diet for all your meals... simply divide it into three or four servings to replace breakfast, lunch, dinner and midnight snack. As with all diets, check with your doctor before you begin.

*Karo Syrup... 3 tablespoons
Evaporated Milk (undiluted)... 1 1/4 cups
Mazola Corn Oil... 2 tablespoons
Water... 1 cup

Combine milk and water, stir in Karo Syrup until it is dissolved. Then add Mazola Oil and beat (or blend with electric mixer) until it is thoroughly mixed. Store formula in the refrigerator in any clean, quart-sized bottle. As a rule, the diet should be made daily and stored like fresh milk.

*The original Fabulous Formula Diet, as it appeared in the July Ladies' Home Journal, called for 6 tablespoons of dextrose sugar. Dextrose is in rather limited supply... and medical authorities state that 3 tablespoons of Karo Syrup have the same caloric value as 6 tablespoons of dextrose. Karo Syrup, available in all grocery stores, is rich in dextrose and may be used in the diet as shown above.

KARO SYRUP is rich in dextrose, so wholesome and nutritious doctors have prescribed it for infant feeding formulas for three generations. This delicious table syrup supplies you with needed energy.

MAZOLA OIL is the only leading vegetable oil made entirely from golden corn. It was the oil specifically used in the formula diet tests.

See How Easy It Is To Diet With The Fabulous Formula

• You diet as you like. If you wish to use the formula on a full time basis, divide the 20 ounces (900 calories) into 4 equal servings to replace breakfast, lunch, dinner and a late snack. Or you may diet for just one or more meals by substituting 5 to 6 ounces of formula for each meal.

• There is no need to count calories of individual foods. Each 20 ounce batch of formula equals 900 calories. You simply substitute formula for meals according to your own dietary needs. For example, a large, exceptionally active or athletic person may require more than 900 calories each day. A 900 calorie-a-day reducer may find, as time goes by, she needs less formula in order to continue her weight loss. If you alter the amounts of the formula listed above, be sure the proportions of the ingredients remain the same.

• When the formula makes up one half or more of your daily diet, you need to supplement it with a daily multiple-vitamin mixture containing all essential fat and water-soluble vitamins. Ask your doctor to select a brand for you.

• The formula tastes delicious when made with any of the three kinds of Karo Syrup... Blue Label (dark); Green Label (maple-y); or Red Label (crystal white).

• Important! The formula tastes best when it is thoroughly mixed and thoroughly chilled. If you are planning it for breakfast, prepare the formula the night before and store it (as well as the glass you will drink it from) in the refrigerator. Reshake it, vigorously, just before you drink it. If you plan to drink it as soon as you prepare it, shake up the formula with a few ice cubes.

• The formula has been tested with obese people who are otherwise in good health. As with any reducing diet, it is important that you check first with your doctor and have his approval.

• The formula has not been tested as a reducing diet for children, or as a method of feeding in pregnancy or in instances of impaired health where larger amounts of protein would be indicated. Any diet, in these special situations, should be evaluated by a doctor.

For Part-Time Dieters

• No serious weight problem? Splendid—the fabulous formula is for you! After a week-end away from home with too many party menus, try the formula on Monday to make you feel normal again. Or—other way 'round—slim down a bit on a week-end, the formula way. Or try this delicious, satisfying formula for one meal a day—lunch or dinner... plus light sensible menus at other meals.

Slimming Is Easier In Summer

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Science proves you can lose faster in the good old summer-time. The edge is off your appetite and hot weather fare can be light and cooling. Actually, it takes little or no will power to lose a half pound a day in hot weather. The slimming is done on all your favorite foods—corn on the cob, garden vegetables, melons, summer berries, cherries, deviled eggs, sea food, lean meats and crisp salads. Who could ask for anything more?

This is not a midsummer day dream—by leaving off the fattening trimmings, you can be a good six to eight pounds lighter in the next two weeks. And if that's just a start toward your ideal weight, continue the hot weather reducing pattern and take off 15 to 20 pounds by Labor Day.

IDEAL WEIGHT

There is no exact pound at which you are ideal weight, but there is a zone within which your weight is normal for your build. Use this rule of thumb: For the ladies, allow 100, 105, or 110 pounds for the first five feet of height, depending on whether you have a slight, medium or large frame. Then add 5 pounds for each extra inch or subtract 5 pounds for each inch under 5 feet. Height is computed without shoes, weight without clothing.

Men can allow 110 pounds for the first 5 feet and 5½ pounds for each extra inch. That is right for the man with an average frame. For the man with big bones and heavy muscles, desirable weight may be 10 per cent higher. It is only excess fat that is a burden to carry. Birthdays? After 25, they don't count on the weight score.

EXCESS NEVER NORMAL

Excess fat is never "normal." Dr. Paul Dudley White's blunt comment that 10 excess pounds constitute obesity may serve to jolt the head of the house into reducing action. Perhaps he'll be in the mood to join you on the diet, so we'll count his calories, too.

A watched scale never drops . . . so weigh only twice a week, first thing in the morning. Because of that phenomenon, water retention, you may not register a weight loss for several days. But one fine morning, you'll be several pounds lighter—happy day!

Ham, Avocado Is Tasty Spread

Suited for ladies' luncheon parties is a sliced ham and avocado sandwich topped with smooth cheese sauce.

Spread slice of toast with mashed avocado, top with slice of ham or chicken, and pour hot cheese sauce over meat. Garnish with slices of the pale green avocado and sprinkle with paprika.

Versatile Hair-Do, Convertible From Long Bob to Bun

Latest of the convertibles that have taken our young models by storm is the convertible hair-do. "And what is that?" I can hear you ask.

Well, it starts with a slightly longish bob with a loose wave that is chiefly in the ends. For daytime you pull it straight back, either twisting it into a French roll or adding a round bun or chignon at the back.

Then for evening or for days when you want to look feminine, you wear it loose in a short page boy that curls under just below your hairline. A most versatile hair-do that makes you look like two different persons!

Beef Broth Over Ice Good Summer Treat

Neatest trick of the summer is keeping cool! It's easier to do if you keep a few cans of beef broth in your refrigerator, ready for spur-of-the-moment serving. Just pour the broth over ice cubes and taste that delicious, beefy flavor—enhanced, perhaps, by a tiny sprinkling of freshly-ground pepper!

Cool Baking on Rack

A wire rack with feet that hold it up from the table is recommended for cooling cakes and cookies because it allows the air to circulate under the baked products and keeps them from becoming soggy.

Add Flavor, Zest With Deviled Ham

Summer's the time for easy eating. Sandwiches, inviting salads, picnic and barbecue fare are just a few of the season's delights. And deviled ham can add its own zesty flavor to all.

A perfect sandwich partner with cheese, mild or sharp; a colorful and spicy topping for a cottage cheese and tomato salad; a tangy stuffing for deviled eggs that travel to beach or woods—deviled ham performs its flavor magic all summer long.

Jack Burke's Courage

It was in Augusta one evening during the Masters last April. A couple of golf professionals and their wives sat in the dining room at the Bon Air Hotel with some nonplaying guests. Jack Burke and his wife sat just a table away.

"Let's ask them to join us," said one of the pros' wives. The Burkes were asked to join the party. They declined, politely and pleasantly. But they declined.

"We used to be good friends," said one of the wives, "but they've crawled into a shell lately. Especially Alene. She seems to be bitter because Jackie hasn't been winning any tournaments."

This was the evening after the first round. Burke lurked somewhere back in the pack at Augusta, and there wasn't a person in town giving him a title thought, not even the guy who'd bought him in the Calcutta (whisper that word) pool. In fact, as I recall, he had sold for a rather modest price, sort of like a club-footed horse at a thoroughbred sale.

It dawned upon nobody that Jack Burke had a chance at the Masters until late Sunday afternoon. The Ken Venturi rage had swept the tournament from the first day. The California amateur, full of bold confidence had gone to the front from the No. 1 hole, which he birdied, and stayed there. With an eight-stroke cushion there seemed no catching him, and surely if the catching was to be done, it would be Cary Middlecoff and not Jack Burke.

But Middlecoff ran into trouble early and eliminated himself. You had to remember, then, the Sunday morning a year before, when a fidgety Middlecoff had sat in the lower clubhouse at Augusta National fighting his nerves and the clock before going out to defend a four-stroke lead for the last 18 holes.

—His Wife Cried a River

"I started reading the comics at 6:30 this morning," Middlecoff had said. "Then I ordered another paper and I read those comics. I asked my wife what time it was. It wasn't even 7:30. I read the papers I read them through, all I could read. I asked her what time it was again. It wasn't even 8:30."

"They've got too much advertising in these papers."

He grined a little. It was forced, for there was no humor in the moment.

Burke was a good listener. He'd led at the end of the first round, but the heat was off him now. He had followed up a 67 with a 76 and was merely a candidate to finish, which he did in 80 strokes.

Middlecoff held his lead and won it. They'd whispered in the cloak closets and over clubhouse tables that if it had been Burke, he'd have blown. Even when he won this year something was taken off his victory by the detractors.

They said that was the only way he'd have won it, slipping in the back door. While Venturi took gas, a rather lately invented term for squandering an advantage, Burke had played it steadily, taken only a few gambles and went in to wait. And when it was over, the thunder-struck Venturi had collapsed and Burke had been declared the champion, there was no happier person in Ike's kingdom than Alene Burke. She cried a river she was so happy.

—The Masters Was a Soul-Bracer

It seems that this was the soul-bracer for Burke. He talked openly that night about his failures. He'd had the hot circuit one winter, lifting everything that wasn't bolted down. He cooled off sharply, though, and didn't win, as I recall, since 1952.

"I'd begun to think I wasn't ever going to win another tournament," he said.

He was grinning like a toothpaste ad when he said it. Somebody had just lifted a safe off his back. He was free of the curse that was upon him. He still hadn't convinced the whisperers, though. They charged that he didn't have courage, that he buckled under pressure.

They can't say it any longer. Tuesday, Jack Burke won the National PGA championship. This is the one that's built on courage. The fight is there in front of you. You don't crawl into a cocoon and play par and the course. You play the guy who stands and glares at every shot you make. One mistake and you go over the precipice. This is the one they'd thought you'd never win.

Burke went to the mat and outplayed two players. Renowned for fortitude, Ed Furgol, with his withered arm, and Ted Kroll, a giddy little man who had listened to the wine of bullets at Anzio. Kroll had him three down after 10 holes in the finals. Then Burke caught a flight of birds and it was his.

It took a man of courage. This was the most important thing about the victory.

THESE CRACKERS ABOUT AS SUCCESSFUL... (L-R) Riddle, Boring, Thorpe Whoop It Up in Loss

Moore Cuts Parker Down to TKO Size

Archie Toys With Giant Foe Until Ref Stops It in Ninth

TORONTO, July 25 (AP)—Ancient Archie Moore, No. 1 claimant to the world heavyweight title, found James J. Parker an easy target tonight and turned the lanky Canadian's face into a bloody mask to win on a technical knockout in 2:02 of the ninth round at Maple Leaf Baseball Stadium.

Parker at 214½ had a 24½-pound weight edge on Moore who weighed 186½.

Archie, self-crowned heavyweight "champ" since Rocky Marciano retired, toyed with the unranked Toronto giant. Although he never dropped him, Moore had sliced Parker's left eye and had drawn a bucket of red before it was stopped.

As Moore rained heavy punches on Parker, who was pinned in Moore's own corner, Referee Billy Burke finally stopped the uneven slaughter.

Even the glistening white dinner jackets worn by some of the reporters were splattered with the crimson from Parker's face.

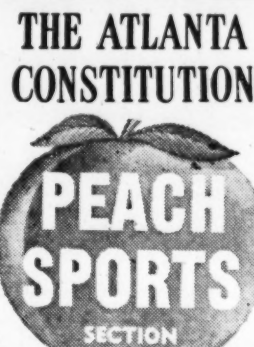

The expected victory by Moore, a 1-4 favorite, sent the light-heavy king from San Diego into a probable September 18 match with Floyd Patterson of New York at Yankee Stadium.

The winner of this contest, when signed, will be universally recognized as Marciano's successor. Rocky, incidentally, was at ringside, covering the contest for a Toronto paper.

Parker didn't give the big crowd, estimated at well over 20,000, much to cheer about. Moore, 5 inches shorter in height and 2 inches less in reach, beat him to the punch repeatedly with his talented left jab and uppercut. At times he feinted the 6-3½ Canadian into a pretzel.

Although the scheduled 15-round match had been given full ballyhoo treatment of a London-type promotion by Jack Solomons and was billed for "the world heavyweight championship" it was recognized as such only by the promoters.

Moore, who admits to 39 but is carried as 42 in the ring record books, never had much to worry about. It looked as though he was going to take Parker out of there in the very first round but was content to jab away, biding his time.

Ford Downs Chisox, 10-1

CHICAGO, July 25 (AP)—Left-hander Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees turned to his favorite pastime of beating the Chicago White Sox tonight with a four-hit, 10-1, victory for his 13th triumph and 14th complete game of the season.

New York 10, Chicago 1. Batters: Ford 10, Chisox 1. Pitchers: Ford 10, Chisox 1. Fielders: Ford 10, Chisox 1. Totals: Ford 10, Chisox 1.

Whitey Ford, New York Yankees, pitched a four-hit, 10-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox tonight. Ford struck out 10 batters and walked 1. Chisox pitched 1 inning and was hit by 1 batter.

Cellar-Sunk Rebels Sink Crackers Again

Voiselle Shuts The Door, 7-5

By JESSE OUTLAR

Someone should slip Atlanta a tip that Montgomery is supposed to be the doorman of the Southern Association. The Rebels sprang their cellar door for the second night in a row Wednesday and planted a 7-5 lump on the Cracker noggin, their seventh success in 15 outings against Atlanta.

Only league-leading Birmingham and sixth-place Mobile have better records against Manager Clyde King's unpredictable men, and the Rebels have administered the same number of defeats as those two clubs.

The setback in the 100th game of the season, coupled with Birmingham's 4-3 squeeze past Memphis in 14 innings, shoved the Crackers three full lengths back of the Barons.

Andy Pane, an erratic south-paw, who has dropped a dozen decisions to the rest of the league while conquering the Crackers twice, almost did it again Wednesday to the dismay of a car night crowd of 4,977.

The Rebels were sitting on a 6-4 lead as a result of a five-run rum-pus in the third, when Manager Steve Souchock yanked Pane with two down. Pane was one out shy of the necessary five frames for a winning starter, so the triumph went to 37-year-old Bill Voiselle, who chilled the Crackers in relief.

Voiselle replaced Lee Anthony in the sixth with one run in, only one out and two Crackers aboard. He spiked the potential rally by getting Frank DiPrima to rap into a double-play. Voiselle shot blanks at the Crackers the rest of the way, retiring Sammy Meeks and DiPrima with two on in the eighth.

Though three hours elapsed before the defeat became official, Bill Wells started Charlie Bicknell reeling towards his sixth loss in 13 verdicts with a lead homer in the first.

The Crackers shattered Pane for two runs in the home half when Bill Reynolds and Bob Thorpe wrapped doubles around DiPrima's sacrifice fly and Clint Weaver kicked Bob Montag's hopper for an error. They added a run in the second when Meeks doubled to deliver Reynolds, who was aboard via a fielder's choice.

Thereafter, the Cracker loyalists had little to cheer about, for the end came for Bicknell in the round, drew a walk. Wells singled. Bicknell lingered long enough and R. C. Otey outlegged a punt to walk Andy Frazier and Spider hit to pack the bases. Bicknell Wilhelm punched a two-run then retired Dixie Upright and single to start Chet Nichols' tour.

Immediate openings for to supervise installation and maintenance of Link electronic flight and guided missile simulators

Here is an opportunity to get in on the ground floor of the new and rapidly expanding military jet training program. You will work directly with key Air Force and Naval Aviation personnel. Your responsibilities will include supervising the installation and long range maintenance of highly specialized Link electronic jet training equipment. Beginning September 1, you will receive three months' special training at the Link plant at Binghamton, New York and then be assigned to a jet training base in the United States.

In addition to excellent base pay, you will receive company benefits, a liberal expense account, and up to 30% bonus for service overseas.

For men with a BS degree in Electrical Engineering or an equivalent background in Electronic Engineering, we sincerely believe that these positions offer an unparalleled opportunity of unlimited scope in jet air transportation.

Logart Decisions Rusty Jed Black

CHICAGO, July 25 (AP)—Isaac Logart, the cute Cuban from Camaguey, slicing cuts near both eyes of game Jed Black, tonight pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision and stretched his winning streak through 10 fights.

Black, out of the Army only three months and in his first bout in nine months, weighed 144½. Logart, third-ranked welterweight in Ring Magazine's ratings, weighed 147½.

Referee Joey White scored 99-93 for the 22-year-old Logart under the Illinois system of 10 points maximum for the winner. Judge James McManus went for Logart 98-93 and Judge John Bray favored the Cuban 98-90.

Avila, Hegan HRs Help Score to 9th

Indians Stop Senators, 11-3;
Southpaw Fans 10 in Triumph

CLEVELAND, July 25 (AP)—Home runs by Bob Avila and Jim Hegan helped Herb Score win his ninth game of the season today as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Washington Nationals, 11-3, at Municipal Stadium.

Score, who has lost six games, pitched five-hit ball, holding the Nationals to two singles until the eighth inning, when Roy Sievers' homer over the left-field fence drove in all the visitors' runs. The young lefthander struck out 10 batters to boost his league-leading strikeout total to 140.

Avila's fifth-inning wallop into the left-field stands, his sixth homer of the season, gave the Indians their first three runs after Camilo Pascual had held the Tribe hitless for the first four frames. Hegan, who singled to open the fifth, and George Strickland, who had walked, scored ahead of Avila.

House Paces Tigers

DETROIT, July 25 (AP)—A three-run homer by catcher Frank House highlighted a four-run, eighth-inning uprising today as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Baltimore Orioles 6-2 in a rain-interrupted game.

Brookhaven Nine Edges Smyrnans, 2-1

Brookhaven Post 65 held exclusive rights to the winners' bracket as the Area 1 American Legion junior baseball tournament opened at Dahlonega Wednesday afternoon.

After Smyrna pounced on Gainesville, 10-2, in the first game of the double-elimination play-off, the Brookhaven nine edged the Smyrnans, 2-1.

'CALIFORNIA, HERE I . . .'—Larry Morris, former Georgia Tech all-American center, gets best wishes and good-byes from his two best girls, Kay Wilder and his mother, Mrs. Clara Morris, before enplaning Wednesday for Redlands, Calif., and the training camp of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League. He begins his sophomore season with the Rams.

BUTTS RARING TO GO AFTER CANADIAN STAY

Coaches have to get in shape, too, and Georgia's Wally Butts returned to Athens Wednesday from a week-long "warm-up" session in Canada raring to go.

Butts spent a week in Montreal as an advisor to the Alouettes' Peasehead Walker for the second year in a row. "I got a good workout. I got to thinking and that's important," Butts grinned.

Butts reported that Fob James, former Auburn halfback now a rookie with Montreal, was making good in a big way. James and Bob Pascal of Duke, another rookie, were running at first string halfback. Butts reported, "Peasehead thinks he (James) will do him a lot of good," he added.

Butts said the Canadians' big problem was the same that has hit Georgia the last few seasons—lack of depth. This, he said, was because the Canadian pro teams can only carry 12 United States players and must complete their 36-man rosters with local talent. Only 28 can dress for a game.

The Alouettes had 52 men working out when Butts was there, none besides James from the Southeastern Conference.

THE DOCTOR HAS A REMEDY

Slaughter in Athens Is Four-Fold Blessing to Georgia Grid Fortunes

By DAN KITCHENS

Special to The Constitution

ATHENS, Ga., July 25—Like all schools with time and tradition behind them, University of Georgia has its share of tried and true supporters.

These "Old Timers" are important sources of aid to the athletic program.

Dr. Nat G. Slaughter of Athens is one whose contribution to Georgia football is unique—four grandsons who won All-State honors in high school.

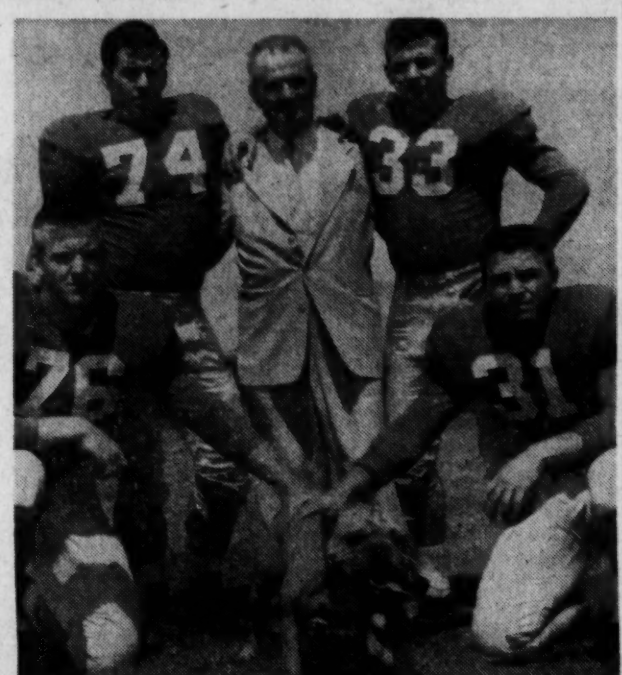

Currently wearing the Red and Black are two of Dr. Nat's grandsons. They are Wayne and Nat Dye of Augusta. Wayne has been on the varsity for the past two years and this fall will begin his final year at Georgia. He is expected to be a mainstay at guard where for two years he has been a top replacement behind Don Shea.

Nat, like Wayne a Richmond Academy graduate, was a first string tackle for the Bulldog freshmen who thrashed Georgia Tech's Baby Jackets, 23-0. Soph Nat, at 6-3 and 215 pounds, has a great opportunity to move into a starting tackle slot.

The other half of Dr. Slaughter's contribution is another brace of brothers, Fain and Billy Slaughter.

Billy was a star halfback on Athens High's undefeated, untied 1955 juggernaut that won the state class A crown. He signed a Georgia grant-in-aid and will enroll in the fall. Georgia fans can see Billy in action with the North eleven in the North-South All-Star game in Atlanta, Aug. 9.

Fain preceded Billy as a back at Athens High but spent two years in the Marine Corps. He, too, will be a Bulldog this fall.

PROOF THAT "DR. NAT" (C) "RAISES BULLDOGS" (L-R): Nat and Wayne Dye, Billy and Fain Slaughter

So, evenly split between the varsity and frosh squads, Doc Slaughter's four grandsons will all be carrying Georgia colors this fall. And there is still another one. Fat Dye, younger brother of Wayne and Nat, will finish his prep career this fall at Richmond Academy, where he has been a two-year guard mainstay. Any scout seeking his signature will have to wait until December to find out where he wants to play college football—although that shouldn't be too hard to guess.

Lumpkin Eyes First Big Crown

By BERT PRATHER

Jack Lumpkin hasn't won an important title yet, but candidates for the Georgia State Open crown this weekend at Savannah Golf Club might do well to keep an eye on the University of Georgia golf team captain.

The 20-year-old Bulldog senior just missed the Golden Isles Crown at Brunswick Country Club recently, losing out on the final round by three strokes to Valdostan Dynamite Goodloe's finishing 68. In this one Jack posted a 286 for second place.

And it will be a long time before fans, who watched Lumpkin duel 10 extra holes with Macon's Arnold Blum in semifinals of the State Amateur here last Saturday, forget the young man from Athens. Though he lost this match on the 28th hole, Jack established himself as one of the finest competitors in golf.

The Open is a 54-hole medal play tournament, which should be right down Jack's alley. He's as good at stroke play as he is at match. Tommy Aron, 20-year-old University of Florida ace from Gainesville, is defending champion in the Open.

Among the other strong amateurs who are expected to be on hand are Davis Adams, Macon; C. L. Straghan Jr. and Jack Butler, Atlanta; Frank Mulherin Jr. and Joe Steinberg, Augusta; Pete Coleman, Bill Ploeger, Brunswick; Carroll McNeill, Douglas; Hobart Manley Jr., Joel Finkelstein, Paul Robinson, Bob White, Billy Mock, all of Savannah; John Dekle and Davey Franklin, Statesboro.

Thompson Springs First Upset In City Tennis Tournament

Ousts 7th Ranked Jerry Hunt;
Top-Seeded Shippey Extended

By LARRY FOX

Young Harry Thompson, a boyish 18 playing his final year as a junior, showed in advance Wednesday that he has the stuff to compete among his elders, too.

Thompson, unseeded in the men's singles division, pulled the Atlanta City Tournament's first major upset when he ousted seventh-ranked Jerry Hunt, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, in the third round. Thompson caught Hunt coming to the net with crisp passing shots again and again for his biggest victory in some time.

In the quarter-finals Thursday, Thompson, top-seeded among the juniors, battles third-ranked Jim Winstead. Winstead gained the quarters by thumping Nat Collins, a fiery competitor, 6-2, 6-2.

Just before Thompson and Hunt completed their extended tussle, Charles Cox, lanky Georgia Tech star, had pulled the tournament's only other surprise when he over-powered veteran Charley Hartridge, the No. 8 entry, 6-1, 6-2. Hartridge earlier had been pressed in his earlier second-round by Fred Martell, 6-2, 9-7.

Larry Shippey, top-seeded and first of the men's singles players on the court in the afternoon, almost was the victim of a shocking reversal himself. However, after losing the first set to unranked Dave Lewis, 6-4, Shippey rallied to win the final two, 6-3, 6-4.

Tennis Results and Pairings

Boys' 15-and-under Singles—10 a.m.—Straley vs. McNeill, 10 a.m.—Ansley vs. McNeill.

6-4. Cox and Shippey meet in the quarters.

Other men's singles matches Thursday send second-seeded Jack Teagle against Duane Gomer, sixth-ranked former Big Ten champion, and Dan Magill against Lindsey Hopkins. Magill, seeded fifth, is tennis coach at the University of Georgia. Hopkins, ranked fourth, is one of his leading pupils.

Rest of the tournament has proceeded along strictly seeded lines. In women's singles, which had a full schedule Wednesday, only one ranked player was carried to an extra set, that being when fourth-ranked Carrie Howell beat Ursula Adkin, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

MOT

Air Coolers
Can Annoy
Neighbors

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Apartment dwellers, please note: "Home air conditioners are wonderful but you have no idea how many sleepless nights I have had. I realize air conditioners are good, but the owner should consider the neighbors, too. There are four in our court. They are so loud and annoying that I was a nervous wreck all last summer."

This Chicago woman has a legitimate complaint and those who own an air conditioner should keep the machine well adjusted to minimize noise.

A few months ago an article appeared on the seven deadly sins in the kitchen. We received several letters on additional sins that are worth passing along. The wife of a physician mentioned the deadliest of all.

"Never heat paraffin in a container directly over an open flame. A friend of mine did this and her kitchen was wrecked by a horrible explosion." The can or jar of paraffin should be placed in a large pan of water and then placed on the burner.

Another sin: "After working with turpentine, do not go near an open flame until you have thoroughly washed the hands with soap and water." Unless this is done a serious burn may ensue.

From time to time I am accused of not liking fat people. Many of my friends are stout and now and then I have trouble keeping my weight down. I write about obesity because it is a health hazard. A 5' 10" Chicagoan who weighs 220 to 240 pounds writes:

"I have a hernia and was told to wear a truss because of my size. But I preferred to be operated on. My surgeon did it and I went to work shortly thereafter and have not been bothered since. You are always picking on the overweight and by doing so you may scare them so they will not be operated on. I know many fat fellows who were operated on successfully."

So do I, but the risk is higher; consequently most surgeons suggest weight reduction first.

Last year we received a letter from someone who had heard that mouse milk was good for arthritis. He wanted additional data on the type of mouse that was needed and how to obtain the milk. I replied that this was new to me. A Rochester, Wis., woman sent me the following clip which is self-explanatory:

"A unique mouse dairy is operated at Columbia University as part of a research program to study the causes of breast cancer among women. A mouse can be milked only once during her pregnancy, and only one cc. of milk is received from each milking. It takes 5,000 black and white mice six months to produce a single quart of mouse milk. Estimated value: $10,000."

Ollie Reeves

A Rhyme a Day

"Voters are urged to study the records of candidates and vote accordingly, but, by all means, vote."—Editorial quote.

Thanks to the ones who try and fail . . . and though their efforts are of some avail . . . and though they never make the grade . . . the poorest showing ever made . . . by those who try, is better than . . . half-hearted efforts of the man . . . who is a genius, heaven-blessed . . . but only halfway does his best.

Unfortunately, and alas . . . not many rate the genius class . . . for most of us just plod along . . . and hope we don't do something wrong . . . and even that is justified . . . if we are certain we have tried . . . (so that's about enough of us) . . . there's something further to discuss.

Since this is an election year . . . and voting time is drawing near . . . a lot of earnest, honest men . . . (well, anyway, they say they've been . . . will take the soapbox or the stump . . . the town hall or the city dump . . . the schoolhouse and the railroad yards . . . and pass around their printed cards.

And we should wish them all success . . . (the best is anybody's guess) . . . as Davy Crockett never said . . . "be sure you're wrong, then go ahead."

Grace Will Bring
Royal Husband
On Visit Home

NEW YORK, July 25 (UP)—

Prince Rainier and Princess

Grace of Monaco will leave Europe Sept. 8 for their first visit to the United States since their marriage, it was learned today.

The royal couple will visit with the former movie star's parents in

Ocean City, N. J. They also plan frequent trips to the Atlantic

John B. Kelly, is president of the track.

Experts Will Try To Remove Mine

MARSEILLE, France, July 25

(UP)—Officials said today demolition experts will try to raise a

World War II mine which was discovered recently in the busy Marseille Harbor. The harbor has been used by thousands of passenger and freight vessels since the war.

The mine was found in the harbor's main entrance, about 100 yards from the shore.

It was discovered by a French submarine while on patrol.
